Two Units To Talk on War Plans

Quantico Marine Base, Va., July 25 (AP)—The navy and the air force, sometimes bitter rivals, tell President Eisenhower and his Pentagon chiefs today what each conceives as its defense mission.

But the heads of the two services prepared their presentations along the lines of teamwork laid down by firm-headed Secretary of Defense Wilson.

Wilson called the top civilian and uniformed brass of the Defense Department to an extraordinary "get-together," joined yesterday by Eisenhower, to iron out any kinks in service unification.

The secretary wants no wrangles over aircraft carriers and bombers, such as the one a few years back. Looking over his shoulder, is the President, himself an old soldier and an old hand at dealing with inter-service feuds.

Opportunity Today
If the air force had any intention of making an issue of the five-billion-dollar cuts in its budget ordered by Wilson, or of openly challenging approval to build a third super-size navy carrier—the opportunity presented itself today.

But the chances were against that.

Secretary of the Air Force Harold Talbott has adhered carefully to the policies laid down by the President and Wilson. Gen. Nathan Twining, air force chief of staff, let the issues drop when he took over command from Gen. Hoyt Vandenberg, who fought a lustrous but vain battle to block the air force cutbacks before he retired a few weeks ago.

Like Talbott, Secretary of the Navy Robert Anderson has displayed no disposition to revive the feud carried on by some of his predecessors.

Army Talked Yesterday
The talks by the Navy and Air Force heads today follow similar discussion yesterday by army officials and by Wilson's defense department assistants.

Eisenhower was expected to attend a luncheon today, but there was uncertainty whether he would make a speech.

The President motored the 30 miles from Washington yesterday afternoon. He was out on the first tee of the 18-hole golf course here within minutes after his arrival.

He banged out a tee shot satisfactorily enough to encourage him to remark, "I hope to come in with an 80."

But whether he did remains unknown. The presidential golf score is a secret.

For yesterday afternoon's round, Eisenhower was in a foursome made up of Talbott, Twining and Gen. J. Lawton Collins, chief of staff of the army.

Eisenhower told reporters his best score for the season was an 83, but didn't say on what course he made that mark. Yesterday was the first time he had played the Quantico course.

Last night, after a dinner for all conferees given by Talbott, Eisenhower went to a theatre on the base to watch a variety show.

Port Ewen Woman Hurt at Hercules

An employee of Hercules Powder Co. injured in a small explosion at the plant about 2:30 p. m. yesterday was reported "fair" at Kingston Hospital late this morning.

A spokesman for the plant told The Freeman that Mrs. Elizabeth Smith of Port Ewen, employed as a manufacturer of detonators, had been cut on the arm by "small flying particles."

He reported that the explosion had been a "very small one," consisting of approximately as much powder as is found in a fire-cracker—"about an eighth of a teaspoonful." He said that Mrs. Smith was expected back to work within two or three days.

Two Leg Fractures Suffered by Boy Near DeWitt Lake

Theresa Bovee Is Injured Trying to Steer Car From Striking Youngster

A New York city boy, 10, was painfully injured when struck by an automobile on Route 32 near DeWitt Lake road intersection about 3:30 p. m. Friday, according to a sheriff's office report.

Anthony Molina, of 103 West 72nd street, was injured as he was leaving the lake after an afternoon swim to return to the Eddyville home where he was staying, was taken to Kingston Hospital by ambulance.

A preliminary report of injuries given the sheriff's office indicated he suffered fractures of both legs, possible concussion, possible skull fracture, lacerated forehead, bruises and abrasions. At the hospital this morning, authorities stated he had shown some improvement during the night and his condition was listed as "fair."

The driver of the automobile, Theresa Bovee, 41, of Dasher's road, Rifton, was treated for minor injuries at the hospital and released. The sheriff's office report said she suffered bruised right hip and right side of head, and shock, after she had swerved the automobile into a guard rail in an unsuccessful attempt to avoid hitting the boy.

Says Boy Confused

Sheriff Cluett Schantz and County Investigator Arthur H. Brown investigated. They reported Miss Bovee was driving south on Route 32, and said she noticed the boy "apparently confused by traffic" at the DeWitt Lake road intersection. The boy started to cross the highway in front of the vehicle and Miss Bovee swerved to the right and struck the guard rail, but was unable to avoid hitting the boy, the report stated.

The front and right side of the automobile was damaged and it may have also received hidden damage to its undercarriage, sheriff's men said.

The young Molina boy has been staying for the past two weeks at the home of Mrs. Anna Trinka in Eddyville. He is the son of Mrs. Carmen Pagan of 103 West 72nd street, New York, the sheriff's office said.

Friday afternoon Anthony had gone swimming with Helen Bresnahan, 11, of the Bronx.

Rural Letter Carriers End Convention Sessions Today

Approximately 250 rural letter carriers, their wives and guests, attended the 51st annual banquet of the New York State Rural Letter Carriers' Association at the Governor Clinton Hotel Friday night.

The banquet was a highlight of the association's three day convention, which concludes tonight. Delegates were meeting at the hotel today to adopt resolutions, select the site of their 1954 convention and transact other business.

Principal speaker at the banquet was H. B. Montague, in charge of the New York city area. He outlined some of the steps being taken by the new postmaster general in Washington to cut department costs and improve its efficiency. The objective, he said, is to "provide better service at a lower cost" to the taxpayer.

Another speaker was Frederick H. Stang, Ulster county attorney and designated Republican candidate for mayor of Kingston. Stang, who appeared in the place of Senate Majority Leader Arthur H. Wicks, told the carriers he could well appreciate their services because he lived in rural areas for many years before moving to Kingston. He spoke of the changes in the rural carrier's life from the horse and buggy days to the present.

A short address of welcome was given by Mayor Oscar V. Newkirk. Other speakers included Inspector R. H. Daly of the Kingston post office; Mrs. Ross T. Wright, president of the National Ladies' Auxiliary; and Paul Morton, National treasurer. State

Served as Crime Prober With Kefauver and Got Response With Stern Lectures

Washington, July 25 (AP)—A blood clot in his heart took the life of Sen. Charles W. Tobey, the fiery New Hampshire Republican who used a ready store of Bible quotations to fight crime or anything else he opposed.

Last night, just two days after his 73rd birthday, Tobey died at the nearby Bethesda, (Md.) Naval Hospital of coronary thrombosis. He had suffered an attack in his office yesterday afternoon.

"There will never be another Sen. Tobey," said Sen. Kefauver (D-Tenn.), who headed the Crime Investigating Committee on which Tobey served.

"His outstanding contribution on the committee will be remembered around the nation," Kefauver added. "People always responded to him after his stern lectures."

No Majority Now
The death wipes out the Republican majority in the Senate, but New Hampshire's Gov. Hugh Gregg, a Republican, is expected to name a Republican to fill the vacancy. The Senate lineup now stands: 47 Republicans, 47 Democrats and one Independent, Wayne Morse of Oregon.

Tobey's green eyeshade, protection against the glare of television lights—and his way of dressing down accused racketeers with words from the Bible and the classics—were almost a trademark of the Kefauver committee's 1951 investigations.

The committee dug into big-time gambling, underworld alliances and vice conditions in cities from coast to coast. Tobey, who said the probe showed racketeering was a "national disease," once interrupted a hearing to

President Sees End Of Red Occupation

Quantico, Va., July 25 (AP)—President Eisenhower today called the Red government of East Germany a "bankrupt regime" and predicted eventual "liquidation of the present Communist dictatorship and the Soviet occupation."

The President, here for conferences of defense leaders, made public a message he has sent to Chancellor Adenauer of West Germany calling anew for free elections in Germany and "the formation of a free all-German government, leading to unification" of the country.

Zaisser Is Mystery in East Berlin

Rumors of His Arrest Offset by Reports He Is to Be Honored by Top Army Job

Berlin, July 25 (AP)—Mystery surrounded the ouster of Red Gestapo boss Wilhelm Zaisser today. Rumors he is under secret arrest in East Berlin, victim of a "Beria purge" were offset by reports he would come back to head both army and police.

The bull-faced German—the "General Gomez" of Spanish civil war fame—was suddenly replaced as chief of state security by Ernest Wollweber and his 100,000 police agents were put under control of the interior ministry.

Biggest Shakeup
It was the biggest Communist shakeup in the East German republic's four year history.

Rumors were that Zaisser who often bragged he possessed a direct pipeline to Lavrenti P. Beria—had now forfeited his liberty because of his generation-long friendship with the purged Soviet police boss.

Unconfirmed reports said Wollweber, in taking over Zaisser's office, had immediately begun a drastic investigation of all Zaisser's staff, seeking scapegoats who failed to weed out "Fascist provocateurs" in Soviet zone industry before the June 17 revolt of workers.

Zaisser, who has served Russia as a military man for 18 years, was summarily relieved as security minister yesterday and the ministry itself was reduced to a secretariat and incorporated in the ministry of the interior.

Both Vanish
Both Zaissier and his chief aide in the security ministry, Communist Erich Mielke, have vanished at least temporarily from public view in the continuing governmental crisis.

However, the rumors that Zaissier has been jailed—spread mainly by anti-Communist organizations with headquarters in West Berlin—were discounted by several officers who had deserted from the East German Army last week. They said that Zaissier is more likely to make a comeback as minister of the interior controlling both the secret police apparatus and the 125,000 men in the People's Army.

Willi Stoph, present interior minister and member of the Communist Central Committee has been under fire because many German troops were proven "politically unreliable" in fighting strikers in the June rebellion. As a member of both the Politburo and

The accident occurred as an automobile driven by Leonard Joseph Parisi, Jr., of 33 St. Mary's street was attempting to turn into a drive-in restaurant and was in collision with a southbound automobile driven by Peter John Rossi of Englewood Cliffs, N. J., the report stated. There was no arrest.

3rd Marines Ordered To Far East

Reports Are 2d Division Also Is Alerted for Movement; All Leaves Canceled, Recall Men

Quantico Marine Base, Va., July 25 (AP)—The Third Marine Division is being sent to the Far East, White House Press Secretary James C. Hagerty announced today.

Hagerty, here with President Eisenhower for a conference of military and civilian leaders, made the announcement in reply to reporters' questions.

The Third Division is headquartered at Camp Pendleton, Calif. Part of the division, however, is in Hawaii.

Uncertain About First
The First Marine Division has been in Korea since early in the war, but Hagerty said he could not say whether that division will remain or be withdrawn from the war zone.

"The only thing I can say," Hagerty told reporters, "is that the Third Marine Division has been assigned to Gen. Mark Clark in the Far East theater."

Clark is supreme commander in the Far East.

The order for the movement of the division was issued "within the last four days," Hagerty said.

2nd Marines Alerted
There were reports yesterday that units of both the 2nd and 3rd Marine Divisions in this country were being alerted for rapid movement to Korea. The 2nd is headquartered at Camp Lejeune, N. C.

Officials said then that as a purely precautionary measure, all leaves had been cancelled and men away from their stations at Lejeune and Pendleton had been recalled.

The normal wartime strength of a marine division is 22,000 men. This does not include units which may be attached when a division goes into combat.

At present there are eight army divisions and one marine division in the Far East, with one army division on duty in Japan and the others in Korea.

Champaign, Ill., July 25 (AP)—Dr. George D. Stoddard has resigned as president of the University of Illinois. Stoddard said today he submitted his resignation, effective Feb. 1, 1954, last night when the university board of trustees declined to give him a vote of confidence. The board accepted his resignation. The resignation climaxed a long feud between Dr. Stoddard and Dr. Andrew C. Ivy, vice president in charge of the university's professional schools in Chicago.

Czechs Crash Iron Curtain in Homemade Armored Car

Wounded in Korea Eight Request Asylum in West Following Dash to Freedom Past Guards

Munich, Germany, July 25 (AP)—A homemade armored car, so cleverly built that it fooled Czech border guards, crashed through the Iron Curtain today bringing eight people to safety in the West.

Bavarian border police said a 31-year-old Czech mechanic, his wife and their two small children, two Czech soldiers, a civilian man and woman roared across to freedom near Wald-Muenchen, in southern Bavaria. They asked asylum.

They first reported the vehicle to be a tank, but said later it was a beautifully-built armored car with tank treads, so well done that they had assumed it was a Czech army tank.

It was decked with foliage as camouflage and as it rumbled through the barbed wire barrier near Wald-Muenchen, a Czech army patrol, heavily armed, watched it open-mouthed. They apparently believed it a Czech armored reconnaissance car and held their fire.

Names Withheld
A German border official declined to give the names of any of the occupants. They were taken to Cham, near Wald-Muenchen, and turned over to U. S. Army Intelligence officials. In such cases refugees are not permitted to talk with outsiders until interrogation is completed.

But a border policeman who talked with the group shortly after the eight escaped from their Communist-dominated homeland, said the young mechanic, a native of Pilsen, told this story:

Two years ago he decided to flee, a conviction which solidified when his machine shop was confiscated and he was forced to operate it for the Communist state.

Painfully, week after week and month after month, he collected pieces of scrap iron and steel. Secretly and at night, he slowly built the armored car which was to bring him to freedom. After 24 months of labor the vehicle was complete.

The tractor-trailer, owned by Davis Brothers of Olive Bridge and employed on Thruway work by John Arborio, Inc., of Poughkeepsie, is believed to have shifted suddenly to one side in passing an oncoming vehicle, causing the bulldozer to slip sideways, he said.

Shift of Bulldozer Blocks Viaduct Traffic on Friday

Traffic was blocked for almost half an hour at the Washington avenue viaduct yesterday afternoon when a large bulldozer slid off a tractor-trailer traveling north over the viaduct and wedged against the railing of the Esopus creek bridge, according to city police.

Traffic was snarled as far back as the Governor Clinton Hotel, Sgt. Lemuel F. Howard said today. He pointed out that an emergency excavation on Clinton avenue between John and Main streets had worsened the traffic bottleneck considerably.

The tractor-trailer, owned by Davis Brothers of Olive Bridge and employed on Thruway work by John Arborio, Inc., of Poughkeepsie, is believed to have shifted suddenly to one side in passing an oncoming vehicle, causing the bulldozer to slip sideways, he said.

Howard reported that Arborio equipment nearby was brought to the scene, uprighted the bulldozer and replaced it on the trailer, "snaking it right out."

A "lot" of Diesel oil spilled on the road, Howard said, explaining that the Board of Public Works had been notified and had sanded that section of the highway.

The bulldozer broke off a section of viaduct concrete, caused some damage to the road and dented the iron bridge over the creek, according to Officers William Hanley, Everett Emmick and Ernest Bartroff, who investigated and directed traffic on the Kingston side of the creek. Sheriff's deputies handled the traffic situation on the north side of the bridge.

Driver of the tractor-trailer was listed by police as Raymond Davis.

May Change Whole Plan Of Signing

Gen. Clark Recognizes Doves of Peace Around Site as Propaganda for Communists

Tokyo, July 25 (AP)—Communist delegates at Panmunjom are trying to pull a last minute ruse which would make the signing of the Korean armistice, tomorrow or Monday (Korean time), appear to be an allied surrender.

But Gen. Mark W. Clark isn't falling for it, a usually reliable source said.

In fact, Associated Press Correspondent Robert Tuckman reported from Panmunjom, the whole signing ceremony may be changed.

There is a possibility, Tuckman said, that the 27 copies of the armistice may all be signed in Panmunjom by the chief delegates and then mailed to the headquarters of the field commanders.

This would eliminate the long-awaited meeting across the table of Gen. Clark, Generalissimo Kim Il Sung of North Korea and Red Chinese Gen. Peng Teh-huai.

"The first move in the Red plot to set up the scene for a purported surrender was to have doves of peace plastered all over the signing site."

Recognizes Propaganda
Clark, whose armies drove the Germans out of Africa and Italy during World War 2 was never known to be a bird watcher. But he knew the Picasso-designed doves are the Red propaganda symbol of peace.

"Down come the doves," Clark reportedly snapped, "or I don't go to Panmunjom." They came down.

Then the Reds started talking about a secret signing, the source said.

Reports from Korea the past days have said the North Korean government of Kim Il Sung is undergoing a radical shakeup.

One version was that Kim was under threat of a purge himself, by pro-Russians. The other was that he had beaten that threat and thrown the pro-Russians out of his cabinet in favor of pro-Chinese.

"The only thing I can say," Hagerty told reporters, "is that the Third Marine Division has been assigned to Gen. Mark Clark in the Far East theater."

Clark is supreme commander in the Far East.

The order for the movement of the division was issued "within the last four days," Hagerty said.

2nd Marines Alerted
There were reports yesterday that units of both the 2nd and 3rd Marine Divisions in this country were being alerted for rapid movement to Korea. The 2nd is headquartered at Camp Lejeune, N. C.

Officials said then that as a purely precautionary measure, all leaves had been cancelled and men away from their stations at Lejeune and Pendleton had been recalled.

The normal wartime strength of a marine division is 22,000 men. This does not include units which may be attached when a division goes into combat.

At present there are eight army divisions and one marine division in the Far East, with one army division on duty in Japan and the others in Korea.

University Head Quits

Champaign, Ill., July 25 (AP)—Dr. George D. Stoddard has resigned as president of the University of Illinois. Stoddard said today he submitted his resignation, effective Feb. 1, 1954, last night when the university board of trustees declined to give him a vote of confidence. The board accepted his resignation.

The resignation climaxed a long feud between Dr. Stoddard and Dr. Andrew C. Ivy, vice president in charge of the university's professional schools in Chicago.

Quake Is Felt

Udine, Italy, July 25 (AP)—A violent earthquake aroused the people of nearby Tolmezzo early today. The tremor lasted for 15 seconds. It also was felt in other nearby towns. There were no reports of damage.

Reports Blast Damage

W. Dale Swartzmiller of 139 Fairview avenue reported to city police at 6:13 p. m. yesterday that a large stone from a blast on Thruway construction had struck his home, breaking a window, gutter and casing.

Under Secretary of State Testifies

Under Secretary of State Walter B. Smith, right, testifies, July 24, before the Senate Appropriations committee. In the course of the hearing Smith and Sen. Joseph McCarthy (R-Wis.), left, clashed over McCarthy's accusation that the overseas library program has been buying books by Communists. Smith was before the group to ask that it back President Eisenhower's request for $8 million dollars to run the International Information Agency in the fiscal year which began July 1.

Czechs Crash Iron Curtain In Homemade Armored Car

Wounded in Korea Eight Request Asylum in West Following Dash to Freedom Past Guards

Munich, Germany, July 25 (AP)—A homemade armored car, so cleverly built that it fooled Czech border guards, crashed through the Iron Curtain today bringing eight people to safety in the West.

Bavarian border police said a 31-year-old Czech mechanic, his wife and their two small children, two Czech soldiers, a civilian man and woman roared across to freedom near Wald-Muenchen in southern Bavaria. They asked asylum.

They first reported the vehicle to be a tank, but said later it was a beautifully-built armored car with tank treads, so well done that they had assumed it was a Czech army tank.

It was decked with foliage as camouflage and as it rammed through the barbed wire barrier near Wald-Muenchen, a Czech army patrol, heavily armed, watched it open-mouthed. They apparently believed it a Czech armored reconnaissance car and held their fire.

Names Withheld
A German border official declined to give the names of any of the occupants. They were taken to Cham, near Wald-Muenchen, and turned over to U. S. Army Intelligence officials. In such cases refugees are not permitted to talk with outsiders until interrogation is completed.

But a border policeman who talked with the group shortly after the eight escaped from their Communist-dominated homeland, said the young mechanic, a native of Pilsen, told this story:

Two years ago he decided to flee, a conviction which solidified when his machine shop was confiscated and he was forced to operate it for the Communist state.

Painfully, week after week and month after month, he collected pieces of scrap iron and steel. Secretly and at night, he slowly built the armored car which was to bring him to freedom. After 24 months of labor the vehicle was

Shift of Bulldozer Blocks Viaduct Traffic on Friday

Traffic was blocked for almost half an hour at the Washington avenue viaduct yesterday afternoon when a large bulldozer slid off a tractor-trailer traveling north over the viaduct and wedged against the railing of the Esopus creek bridge, according to city police.

Traffic was snarled as far back as the Governor Clinton Hotel, Sgt. Lemuel F. Howard said today. He pointed out that an emergency excavation on Clinton avenue between John and Main streets had worsened the traffic bottleneck considerably.

The tractor-trailer, owned by Davis Brothers of Olive Bridge and employed on thruway work by John Arbio, Inc., of Poughkeepsie, is believed to have shifted suddenly to one side in passing an oncoming vehicle, causing the bulldozer to slip sideways, he said.

Howard reported that Arbio equipment nearby was brought to the scene, uprighted the bulldozer and replaced it on the trailer, "snaking it right out."

A "lot" of Deisel oil spilled on the road, Howard said, explaining that the Board of Public Works had been notified and had sanded that section of the highway.

The bulldozer broke off a section of viaduct concrete, caused some damage to the road and dented the iron bridge over the creek, according to Officers William Hanley, Everett Emmick and Ernest Bartroff, who investigated and directed traffic on the Kingston side of the creek. Sheriff's deputies handled the traffic situation on the north side of the bridge.

Driver of the tractor-trailer was listed by police as Raymond Davis.

May Change Whole Plan Of Signing

Gen. Clark Recognizes Doves of Peace Around Site as Propaganda for Communists

Tokyo, July 25 (AP)—Communist delegates at Panmunjom are trying to pull a last minute ruse which would make the signing of the Korean armistice, tomorrow or Monday (Korean time), appear to be an allied surrender.

But Gen. Mark W. Clark isn't falling for it, a usually reliable source said.

In fact, Associated Press Correspondent Robert Tuckman reported from Panmunjom, the whole signing ceremony may be changed.

There is a possibility, Tuckman said, that the 27 copies of the armistice may all be signed in Panmunjom by the chief delegates and then mailed to the headquarters of the field commanders.

This would eliminate the long-awaited meeting across the table of Gen. Clark, Generalissimo Kim Il Sung of North Korea and Red Chinese Gen. Peng Teh-huai.

"The first move in the Red plot to set up the scene for a purported surrender was to have doves of peace plastered all over the signing site."

Recognizes Propaganda
Clark, whose armies drove the Germans out of Africa and Italy during World War 2 was never known to be a bird watcher. But he knew the Picasso-designed doves are the Red propaganda symbol of peace.

"Down come the doves," Clark reportedly snapped, "or I don't go to Panmunjom." They came down.

Then the Reds started talking about a secret signing, the source said.

Reports from Korea the past days have said the North Korean government of Kim Il Sung is undergoing a radical shakeup.

One version was that Kim was under threat of a purge himself, by pro-Russians. The other was that he had beaten that threat and thrown the pro-Russians out of his cabinet in favor of pro-Chinese.

UN Planes Bomb Troops, Supplies; Enemy Fights Hard

Seoul, July 25 (AP)—United Nations warplanes, defying bluster weather, relentlessly bombed Communist troops and supply lines in North Korea today in what could be the waning hours of 37 months of war on this devastated peninsula.

While 5th Air Force bombers and fighters hammered the Reds with a million pounds of bombs, shooting slackened and tension rose along parts of the battlelines.

Only near the truce talks site at Panmunjom was the roar of big guns heard in any fury.

Storm Three Hills
There, Chinese Reds—attacking with their usual disregard of casualties—stormed the slope of three hill positions defended by American marines.

DIPLOMATIC ILLNESS

A short time after the Bermuda Conference was called off an editorial writer for one of the New York papers made the point that we could rest assured that the illness of Prime Minister Winston Churchill was not diplomatic. He went on to explain that the aging Prime Minister has too much real concern for the cause of world peace ever to troop up an illness in order to cancel such a conference.

Diplomatic illness is, of course, the kind that serves a purpose. Sometimes headaches are handy. You have an engagement, let us say, which you cannot get enthusiastic about. So you call up and beg off on the grounds that you just do not feel up to it, physically. It is a very effective method for it is next to impossible to muster arguments why a sick man should keep his engagements.

Very often we shun responsibilities by pretending physical inability. We would rather have a throb in the head than to face the challenge of the task. Maybe some moral cause needs a leader or some worthy enterprise needs humble helpers. But there are so many other things we would rather do. So it is up to us to find some way to keep from being available. We would rather avoid the possible deliverances and not appear to be quite so effective as "illness." So illness it is—the diplomatic brand.

The illnesses that serve our purposes far better than health are almost incurable. They do not yield to treatment. Someone called it takes one time for people to get over an illness if compensation sets in. That presents incredible complications. For some way compensation interferes with the patient's recovery in spite of all the doctors can do. A whole army of M.D.'s and a charming galaxy of nurses and a warehouse of wonder drugs can't bring health back when the "illness" is a paying proposition.

The worst drawback of a diplomatic illness is that it is almost impossible for us to keep from giving ourselves away. A man who is too sick to go to work wants to be careful about turning up to the golf course or to the bridge table. That makes the illness itself look sick. It shows it up for what it is—a tinkered-up excuse instead of a real, life-blood reason.

First Assembly Again Schedules Vacation School

First Assembly of God will conduct a daily vacation Bible school in its church at 87 Fair street beginning August 3 and closing August 14. Last year the total registration was 121 pupils and the church is hopeful of having this many or more this year. The school is open to all children between the ages of 4 and 16 years, regardless of church affiliation or background. Classes are held daily Monday through Friday beginning at 9 a. m. and closing at 12 noon.

The general program begins with a devotional time when songs of worship are sung followed by the reading of the word of God then concluded in prayer. The children are then sent to their classes where qualified teachers with at least several years experience present to the children interesting studies of the Bible. The lessons are adapted to the age of the pupil. A recess period is then observed followed by handwork soon after.

Will Get Diploma

On the last night of the Bible School diplomas are presented to those who have completed satisfactory work and attended at least eight of the 10 classes. Awards also are given for perfect attendance, and other attainments. A program will be presented in which the pupils will present for public viewing the results of their efforts.

Specialists in this work have been called in to conduct the school. Miss Violet Madigan who conducted the school last year will again direct the school this year. Miss Madigan is a graduate of the Zion Bible Institute in East Providence, R. I., where she was trained for this work. She has successfully conducted Daily Vacation Bible Schools for the past four years. She spends her entire summers conducting schools in New York, New Jersey and New England. Her winters are spent in conducting teachers training courses in the Eastern United States, and conducting special young peoples services.

The school is operated on the free will offering plan with no one being put under any obligation. Transportation will be provided for those who live too far to walk or have no public transportation available. For further information call 6587.

Very often we shun responsibilities by pretending physical inability. We would rather have a throb in the head than to face the challenge of the task. Maybe some moral cause needs a leader or some worthy enterprise needs humble helpers. But there are so many other things we would rather do. So it is up to us to find some way to keep from being available. We scout around among the possible deliverances and none appears to be quite so effective as illness. So illness it is—the diplomatic band.

The illnesses that serve our purposes far better than health are almost incurable. They do not yield to treatment. Someone has called attention to the fact that "it takes a long time for people to get over an illness if compensation sets in." That is, in fact, in the medical world, a "witness" to a paying proposition. The worst drawback of a diplomatic illness is that it is almost impossible for us to keep from giving ourselves away. A man who is too sick to go to work wants to be careful about turning up at the golf course or in the morning. That makes the illness itself look sick. It shows it up for what it is—a tinkered-up excuse instead of a real, life-blood reason.

Nazarene Youth Will Display Work Sunday

The Daily Vacation Bible school conducted by the Nazarene Church of the Nazarene, ended Friday with a record enrollment of over 80. The boys and girls will present a public program Sunday morning during the Sunday school hour, and will display completed projects. In a special children's evangelistic service, nearly all attending witnessed to having dedicated their lives to Christ.

The following teachers and workers have contributed songs and verses: Mrs. Rachel McConvey, Mrs. Alta W. Wolfersheim, Mrs. F. F. Fike, Mrs. Grace Robinson, Mrs. Henry Bartsch, Jr., Mrs. Lillian Joyce, Mrs. Van Leuven, Audra Justice, Irene Robinson, and the Rev. F. F. Fike.

First Assembly Again Schedules Vacation School

First Assembly of God will conduct a daily vacation Bible school in its church at 87 Fair street beginning August 3 and closing August 14. Last year the total registration was 121 pupils and the church is hopeful of having this many or more this year. The school is open to all children between the ages of 4 and 16 years, regardless of church affiliation or background. Classes are held daily Monday through Friday beginning at 9 a. m. and closing at 12 noon.

The general program begins with a devotional time when songs of worship are sung followed by the reading of the word of God then concluded in prayer. The children are then sent to their classes where qualified teachers with at least several years experience present to the children interesting studies of the Bible. The lessons are adapted to the age of the pupil. A recess period is then observed followed by handwork soon after.

Will Get Diploma

On the last night of the Bible school diplomas are presented to those who have completed satisfactory work and attended at least eight of the 10 classes. Awards also are given for perfect attendance, and other attainments. A program will be presented in which the pupils will present for public viewing the results of their efforts.

A specialist in this work has been called in to conduct the school. Miss Violet Madigan who conducted the school last year will again direct the school this year. Miss Madigan is a graduate of the Zion Bible Institute in East Providence, R. I., where she was trained for this work. She has successfully conducted Daily Vacation Bible Schools for the past four years. She spends her entire summers conducting schools in New York, New Jersey and New England. Her winters are spent in conducting teachers training courses in the Eastern United States, and conducting special young peoples services.

The school is operated on the free-will offering plan with no being put under any obligation. Transportation will be provided for those who live too far to walk or have no public transportation available. For further information call 6587.

Jamboree Notes

By RICHARD CONSTANT

July 21, 1953

As soon as breakfast was done our troop put on its Jamboree demonstration on reptiles. Included in the exhibit were a live Black Racer, Bull Snake and two King Snakes. Besides these there were a number of preserved snakes including Diamondback and Pigmy Rattlesnake, Coral Snake, Cottonmouth Moccasin and many others.

After lunch the fellows either went swapping or else attended the radio show. The radio, which was organized by Monty Montana, who is one of the best trick ropers in the country, proved very interesting.

Immediately following supper, Fred Burnett and Richard Constant represented the troop at the radio ceremony at general headquarters. These two along with 20 other Scouts from Region Two lowered the American, Jamboree, Boy Scout and Foreign Flags.

At 8:30 all Jamboree participants, 50,000, converged on the main arena for the all star review. The masters of ceremonies were Bob Hope and Art Linkletter who introduced many actors and actresses. Included among these were Debbie Reynolds, Jane Powell, Rory Calhoun, Lash LaRue, Bill Elliot and the original Max Sennet cops. These performances showed the boys how a picture is made by actually shooting one. Besides that the cowboys demonstrated a movie fight. The show was completed with a stupendous fireworks display.

Tomorrow, the Jamboree ends.

Ambulatory Alligator

Pleasantville, N. J. (P. "Shades of the Everglades" was the story here when a baby alligator crashed out of a bush on Main street, Albert the Alligator, measuring a foot and a half from tail to teeth, snapped at a woman passerby. Firemen finally trapped the reptile and returned him to his owner. Albert had crawled away from his backyard pen, apparently eager to see whether Pleasantville lived up to its name.

'Bloom' on Varnish

"Bloom" is a term used to describe a fluorescence or deposit on a varnished or lacquered surface. It is sometimes caused by a thin film of foreign material, such as smoke, dust or oil. Occasionally it results from allowing the finish to dry in a poorly ventilated atmosphere.

Needs Room to Expand

Sheets of insulating board should never be butted tight against one another. The reason is that if the boards expand they will buckle out and the only cure for that is to take them off and start over again.

Preventing Rust Stains

Rust stains from nails in exterior siding can be prevented by driving the head of the nail below the surface of the wood and then filling the hole around it with wood putty.

Heat Affects Wiring

Electric wires in cables running near a heating plant may fail because the heat causes the insulation on them to dry out and crack. Coat cables in these warm areas with asbestos.

NEW PALTZ NEWS

By MRS. WILLIAM JAY

C of C to Meet Tuesday, July 28

New Paltz, July 24—The New Paltz Chamber of Commerce will meet Tuesday at 8 p. m. in the trustee's room of the municipal building. It is expected that the recreation committee will report on the status of the project to develop the village reservoir area for community recreational purposes. This committee has been working with a committee of village board members on legal and insurance aspects, sanitation, safety and costs of the project.

Kelly Campbell, chamber president, requests all members attend next Tuesday's meeting. The officers and committees are at work on a variety of problems and projects. They cannot carry on their work properly, he says, unless the members will support them by attending the regular meetings and getting behind Chamber activities. The reservoir project in particular demands speedy action.

Other items on the agenda include a report by Al Weiss on the layout of the Vacation Folder, a pamphlet promoting New Paltz, a report by Bob Glanz about the town dump situation and a report by Joe Tighe on traffic problems.

The chamber is considering the possibility of developing a parking area for about two dozen cars in back of stores on the north side of Main street.

The Chamber had planned to meet Tuesday, July 21. Postponement was made necessary because the trustee's room was used by the village board for a special session.

WCS Recognition*Service Held Sunday

New Paltz, July 24—On Sunday, July 19, the morning service at the Methodist Church gave recognition to the Woman's Society of Christian Service. Members of the local organization representing the Woman's Society on three levels participated in the service. Mrs. Willett Porter is conference secretary of Youth Work; Mrs. Alvin Beatty is district secretary of literature and publication and Mrs. William C. Jay is local president. Mrs. Eugene Trautwein, past president of the local society, also took part in the service as she does each Sunday as church organist. The offertory solo "The Green Cathedral" by Hahn was sung by Mrs. Jess Dunham. Mrs. Dunham is the daughter of a WCS member Mrs. Roman Hutton. Members of the society and their families sat in a body at the service.

The sermon topic of the sermon given by the Rev. Mr. Porter was "A Visit to Bethany With Jesus. Mary and Martha were the sisters of Lazarus, friend of Jesus. By his visit and talk with the sisters, Jesus recognized them as individuals in their own right, a position which women at that time did not generally enjoy. The scripture lesson was taken from the Book of Ruth.

Supper Is Successful

New Paltz, July 24—The Women's Society of the Methodist Church held a successful fair and cafeteria, July 16. Total receipts are expected to be over $300. Snap shots taken by Nina Haas will be displayed on posters in the store of Herbert Phillips on Main street. Scenes show visitors enjoying the supper and booths on the lawn.

Church News

New Paltz, July 24—The Rev. and Mrs. Willett Porter, Mrs. Eugene Trautwein and Mrs. Walter Roe of Lloyd are on the faculty and staff of the Junior High Youth Fellowship Institute held at the Oakwood School in Poughkeepsie all this week. The Rev. and Mrs. Lee H. Ball also are serving on the faculty. On Sunday, July 26, the pulpit of the Methodist Church will be filled by Lorin Osterhout of Highland and George DuBois also of Highland. A series of Protestant churches is being given at the Reformed Church by the Rev. Gerret Wulfschlegel. Next Sunday, July 26, the Quakers will be the denomination studied. The series began with the Lutherans, then the Reformed Church. Later in the series the Congregationalists and the Methodist and the fringe sects. The final sermon in the series will study the question, "Will We Always Be Divided."

During the summer the Episcopal services are held at 8 a. m. and 9:30 a. m. On two Sundays in August a service will be held at the 9:30 hour only. August 10 and August 17 are the dates.

Report Is Given On Legion Parley

New Paltz, July 24—John K. Ashton, Jr., was the American Legion delegate from Ulster county at the New York American Legion convention in Rochester, July 17-19. He reports that the highlights of the convention were the hilarious parade of 40 and 8 Friday night, a four-hour Legion parade Saturday morning and a drum and bugle corps contest Saturday night with the finest Legion corps in the state represented. The report of National Vice-Commander Tom Partridge covered facts on the three years in Korea. Pertinent facts given included five and a half million men have served in the armed forces in the three year period. One million six hundred thousand of them in the Far East. There were 17,000 in the Far East in June, 1950 and by March, 1953 there were 339,800 men. The present U. S. strength is approximately 3,700,000.

Casualties have included 24,386 killed, 98,851 wounded, 1,386 missing and captured. There have been 91 Congressional Medals of Honor awarded.

A large per cent of the Korean servicemen were World War 2 veterans. Every Korean veteran is required to serve in the Reserve for eight years, he said. No provisions have been made to provide new servicemen in the event of a full-scale war. Those who have already served will be required to serve again while those without previous training will be the last to serve their country in any future war.

Vice-Commander Partridge, in conclusion, pleaded for a "Back to God" movement as the only lasting solution to the problem of war and called for the whole-hearted support of the nation and the world.

Stone House Day Slated August 29

New Paltz, July 24—Plans for Stone House Day are nearing completion. The date is Saturday, August 29. Under the auspices of the Reformed Church five original stone houses built more than 200 years ago will be open to the public. Food will be served during the day by the ladies of the church.

On Monday, July 27, the chairman of committees for Stone House Day will meet with the general chairman, Kenneth E. Hasbrouck at the Reformed Church, at 7:30 p. m. Last year Stone House Day was attended by hundreds of visitors. A large attendance is expected this year also as announcements of the event have been distributed widely throughout New England and the Middle Atlantic States.

Bodine Rifle Added To Memorial House

New Paltz, July 24—The famous Col. John Bodine rifle has become the possession of the Memorial House under the provision of the will of August Tschirky. He was the son of the late Oscar Tschirky, world renowned as the famous Oscar of the Waldorf. The rifle is the one used by Col. Bodine in the International shooting contest and to make the shot that won the championship for the United States Team.

After the death of Col. Bodine it became a part of the Elting Harp Collection and was in turn purchased from the estate by Tschirky.

Col Bodine was such a highly esteemed marksman that each manufacturer made him a gift of a special gun. The rifle will be on display at the Memorial House.

Mayors Convene Here
New Paltz, July 24—On Tuesday evening, July 21, a meeting of mayors from the vicinity was called to hear Anthony Sansone. The purpose was to discuss the possibility of an association of mayors of the surrounding communities to study common problems. Sansone, village attorney from Mamaroneck, told of a similar association in Westchester county. A Chamber of Commerce meeting scheduled for the same evening in the trustee's room at the municipal building was postponed until July 28.

Meeting Postponed

New Paltz, July 24—The town meeting for New Paltz has been postponed until the third Thursday, August 29. The regular meeting day is the second Thursday of each month. The later date will enable more members to be present.

Village Notes

New Paltz, July 24—Mr. and Mrs. Francis R. Hasbrouck announce the birth of a son, Brian Robert, at Kingston Hospital Friday, July 17. This is the first son for the Hasbroucks.

The birth of Gary Holmes is announced by Mr. and Mrs. Robert Holmes July 17, at Kingston Hospital.

Ronald VanderHeide of Scarsdale spent the last week as guest of his aunt, Mrs. Eugene Trautwein, Sr.

The Harold De Puys, who are enjoying a western vacation, were guests of the Eugene Trautweins, Jr. in Sacramento, Calif., recently. The De Puys report that they were advised not to visit Yosemite National Park because the altitude and the heat would cause car trouble.

Mrs. Edith Hoerner has been visiting her aunt, Miss Margaret Newton for three weeks. She returned to Lake Worth, Fla., Thursday.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Bowles, Mrs. Helen Smith and Robert, and Mrs. I. D. Sutton have returned from the Brant Lake in upstate New York.

Ft. Joseph Foley received his discharge from the armed forces at Fort Dix Wednesday, July 22.

He returned from Tokyo recently, landing in California Tuesday. His plane was forced down in Arizona for repair. He landed at Fort Devens Friday.

Mrs. John Christensen journeyed to Titusville, Pa., last week to attend the funeral of her sister-in-law Mrs. Carl O. Woerner. Mr. Woerner accompanied Mrs. Christensen to New Paltz Tuesday, July 14, and remained for a visit of several days.

Mrs. Robert Swain entertained Friday afternoon for Mrs. Thomas McKinney of Ohioville. Those invited to meet Mrs. McKinney were Mrs. Robert Lang, Mrs. Robert Pyle, Mrs. Richard Redfern, Mrs. Richard Ordway, Mrs. Albert Kerr, Mrs. Durlin Wade and Mrs. William Jay. Mrs. Edna Frandsen assisted her daughter in entertaining.

On Saturday evening, July 18, the Eugene Links of Mulberry street invited friends over to enjoy a musical evening on the terrace. Each couple was asked to bring a favorite record to play. Those attending were Dean and Mrs. George Angell, the Victor Landaus, the Kelly Campbells, the Albert Kerrs, and the William Jays.

Tardy Twosome

Enid, Okla. (AP)—Mrs. Ed Smith had the last laugh on her husband. She let her driver's license expire May 1 and remembered it a couple of weeks later. Her husband reprimanded her saying, "There's no excuse for that." Then she guessed it—Smith checked his own driver's license and discovered it had expired a year before.

No Crime for Crimebusters

Newkirk, Okla. (AP)—Kay County Sheriff Roy Welch complains his crime-busting business has fallen off so much that all he and his deputies have to do is serve legal papers and deliver mental patients to hospitals. Welch says that for the first time since 1938 there is not a single prisoner in the county jail.

Handwriting on Wall

Taipei, Formosa (AP)—Chinese Nationalists say the figure "4" is appearing more and more on walls in Red China despite the fact that anyone who writes it risks death. The figure is a numerical abbreviation of four characters that mean "Communist bandits must perish."

Canine Ranger

West Glacier, Mont. (AP)—Joy, a sad-eyed bloodhound, is now a Glacier National Park ranger. The dog was given a medal recently certifying it as a ranger for finding the body of a man buried by a snow avalanche on the park's Going-to-the-Sun Highway.

The College Spirit

Roseville, Calif. (AP)—Panties and brassieres disappeared from closets, and Police Chief McCrary was pretty piqued when a 17-year-old boy admitted the thefts. "We just can't allow these pants to go on," Chief McCrary declared. "After all, there isn't even a college around here."

Sealing Gutter Joints

Leaky joints between sections of gutters and downspouts can be sealed with a little roofing cement.

The OZARK*New Designs for Modern Furniture

A resourceful New York designer has developed easy-to-follow plans for a fresh new group of versatile plywood furniture pieces that can brighten any room setting in your home at amazingly little cost.

Characterized by clean modern lines, frankness of design and straight-forward construction, every piece is so simple to build that an amateur can do a professional looking job.

Smart looking, practical and adaptable, these units can be finished with contrasting decorator colors and other modern do-it-at-home finishes. They will add a spot of color in any room in the house and the simplicity of design makes it possible to use them with either a traditional or contemporary room decor.

For Hobby-Size Panels.
Designed by Norman Cherner, every piece can be built with the new hobby-size fir plywood panels which are 24 1/2 feet and smaller. The new small sizes called handy panels minimize cutting and leftovers can be handled easily in even small pieces.

The group includes a desk, coffee table, dining room buffet, vanity and end-table. The parts for the desk, buffet and vanity can be combined or interchanged to get several treatments or multiplied in a series of units for a storage wall.

Every piece can be built for remarkably little expense and the desk should not cost more than $16. (National average based on latest available Chicago retail sales for fir plywood compiled by leading trade magazines; prices may vary depending upon sources of supply.)

Plans are available at your local lumber dealer or send 10 cents to Douglas Fir Plywood Association, Tacoma, Wash.

Concrete Flooring O.K.

The use of concrete floor slabs in basementless houses does not detract from the beauty of the room design in the dwelling's rooms. Plagioses set into concrete, the use of asphalt tile, or other flooring materials are popular and attractive methods for finishing the floors. Properly insulated, concrete floors can be kept warm and dry and carpeting can be laid over the concrete floor without the danger of mildew common with floors not adequately insulated.

Choose Cooler Colors

Rooms with a western exposure are generally the warmest—particularly during the afternoon. For this reason, it is usually wise to select cool colors for their walls and woodwork. When choosing the paint color, remember that, toward evening, the light becomes soft and seems to mellow all colors. Earlier, it is brilliant and will make a great color change in the room unless soft tones have been selected.

Keeping Boiler Clean

To prevent excessive lime deposits in hot water or steam heating systems, fresh water should not be added to the boiler unless absolutely necessary, since the "stale" water has had all the lime boiled out of it.

Stopping Basement Leak

Water often gets into a basement through the seams between the basement floor and the wall. This usually can be fixed by cutting out the seam with a cold chisel so that a wedge-shaped crevice is formed and then packing the crevice with cement mortar, tar or asphalt.

Plywood Fence Has Basketweave Look

Nothing can spoil the relaxed enjoyment of outdoor living and dining faster than too many "next door" spectators.

One of the simplest answers is a windscreens and fence around the patio or terrace in the back yard. Here is an interesting design with which you can weave a little privacy around you and your family.

It consists of wide horizontal panels of exterior plywood laced through supporting posts in a handsome basket weave effect. The panels are secured to alternating sides of posts with a floating spreader in between to give the fence its unusual appearance.

This is just one of six plans for plywood screens and fences with which you can dress up your outdoors. All are designed for building with exterior plywood with waterproof glue. Write Douglas Fir Plywood Association, Tacoma, Wash., for the descriptive folder outlining what is available.

Built-in Rule on Bench

A rule has a way of getting lost or covered with shavings of what not on a workbench. Much time can be saved by having a good quality yardstick into the edge of the bench in the manner used of drygoods counters. Or measure off carefully and mark the edge of the bench with India ink, covering the strip with a coat of thinned shellac or varnish.

Enameling Over Stain

To prevent old mahogany and walnut stains from "bleeding through" a new coat of enamel, remove any surface gloss with sandpaper, then apply a thin coat of shellac. After two hours or more, sand lightly and brush on enamel undercoat. When this is thoroughly dry, the enamel can be applied.

Extra Shower in Cellar

An extra shower in the basement helps keep the whole house cleaner, the Plumbing and Heating Industries Bureau advises. When youngsters come in from play or even from the beach, it is easy to steer them to the basement shower and thus keep the dirt away from the rest of the house. Low-cost metal prefabricated shower cabinets are available that are ideal for use in basements, garages or summer cottages.

'Bloom' on Varnish

"Bloom" is a term used to describe a fluorescence or deposit on a varnished or lacquered surface. It is sometimes caught by a thin film of foreign material, such as smoke, dust or oil. Occasionally it results from allowing the finish to dry in a poorly ventilated atmosphere.

Needs Room to Expand

Sheets of insulating board should never be butted tight against one another. The reason is that if the boards expand they will buckle out and the only cure for that is to take them off and start over again.

Preventing Rust Stains

Rust stains from nails in exterior siding can be prevented by driving the head of the nail below the surface of the wood and then filling the hole around it with wood putty.

Heat Affects Wiring

Electric wires in cables running near a heating plant may fail because the heat causes the insulation on them to dry out and crack. Coat cables in these warm areas with asbestos.

NEW PALTZ NEWS

By MRS. WILLIAM JAY

C of C to Meet Tuesday, July 28

New Palitz, July 24—The New Palitz Chamber of Commerce will meet Tuesday at 8 p. m. in the trustee's room of the municipal building. It is expected that the recreation committee will report on the status of the project to develop the village reservoir area for community recreational purposes. This committee has been working with a committee of village board members on legal and insurance aspects, sanitation, safety and costs of the project.

Other items on the agenda include a report by Al Weisz on the layout of the Vacation Folder, a pamphlet promoting New Palitz, a report by Bob Glanz about the town dump situation and a report by Joe Tighe on traffic problems. The chamber is considering the possibility of developing a parking area for about two dozen cars in back of stores on the north side of Main street.

The Chamber had planned to meet Tuesday, July 21. Postponement was made necessary because the trustee's room was used by the village board for a special session.

WCS Recognition Service Held Sunday

New Palitz, July 24—On Sunday, July 19, the morning service at the Methodist Church gave recognition to the Woman's Society of Christian Service. Members of the local organization representing the Woman's Society on three levels participated in the service. Mrs. Willet Porter is conference secretary of Youth Work; Mrs. Alvin Beatty is district secretary of literature and publication and Mrs. William C. Jay is local president. Mrs. Eugene Trautwein, past president of the local society, also took part in the service as she does each Sunday as church organist. The offertory solo "The Green Cathedral" by Hahn was sung by Mrs. Jess Dunham. Mrs. Dunham is the daughter of a WCS member. Mrs. Roman Hutton, members of the society and their families sat in a body at the service.

The sermon topic of the sermon given by the Rev. Mr. Porter was "A Visit to Bethany With Jesus. Mary and Martha were the sisters of Lazarus, friend of Jesus. By his visit and talk with the sisters, Jesus recognized them as individuals in their own right, a position which women at that time did not generally enjoy. The scripture lesson was taken from the Book of Ruth.

Supper Is Successful

New Palitz, July 24—The Woman's Society of the Methodist Church held a successful fair and cafeteria July 16. Total receipts are not in as yet but the sum is expected to be over $300. Snap shots taken by Nina Haas will be displayed on posters in the store of Herbert Phillips on Main street. Scenes show visitors enjoying the supper and booths on the lawn.

Church News

New Palitz, July 24—The Rev. and Mrs. Willet Porter, Mrs. Eugene Trautwein and Mrs. Walter Roe of Lloyd are on the faculty and staff of the Junior High Youth Fellowship Institute held at the Oakwood School in Poughkeepsie all this week. The Rev. and Mrs. Lee H. Ball also are serving on the faculty. On Sunday, July 26, the pulpit of the Methodist Church will be filled by Lorin Osterhout of Highland and George DuBois also of Highland.

A series of sermons of the beliefs of Protestant churches is being given at the Reformed Church by the Rev. Gerret Wulfschlegel. Next Sunday, July 26, the Quakers will be the denomination studied. The series began with the Lutherans, then the Reformed Church. Later in the series the Congregationalists and the Methodist and the fringe sects. The final sermon in the series will study the question, "Will We Always Be Divided?"

During the summer the Episcopal services are held at 8 a. m. and 9:30 a. m. on two Sundays in August a service will be held at the 9:30 hour only. August 10 and August 17 are the dates.

Report Is Given On Legion Parley

New Palitz, July 24—John K. Ashton, Jr., was the American Legion delegate from Ulster county to the New York American Legion convention in Rochester, July 17-19. He reports that the highlights of the convention were a hilarious parade of 40 and 8 Friday night, a four-hour Legion parade Saturday morning and a drum and bugle corps contest Saturday night with the finest Legion corps in the state represented. The report of National Vice-Commander Tom Paradine covered facts on the three years in Korea. Pertinent facts given included five and a half million men have served in the armed forces in the three year period. One million six hundred thousand of them in the Far East. There were 17,000 in the Far East in June, 1950 and by March, 1953 there were 839,800 men. The present U. S. strength is approximately 3,700,000.

Casualties have included 24,386 killed, 98,851 wounded, 11,386 missing and captured. There have been 91 Congressional Medals of Honor awarded. A large per cent of the Korean servicemen were World War 2 veterans. Every Korean veteran is required to serve in the Reserve for eight years, he said. No provisions have been made to provide new servicemen in the event of a full-scale war. Those who have already served will be required to serve again while those without previous training will be the last to serve their country in any future war.

Stone House Day Slated August 29

New Palitz, July 24—Plans for Stone House Day are nearing completion. The date is Saturday, August 29. Under the auspices of the Reformed Church five original stone houses built more than 200 years ago will be open to the public. Food will be served during the day by the ladies of the church.

On Monday, July 27, the chairman of committees for Stone House Day will meet with the general chairman, Kenneth E. Hasbrouck at the Reformed Church, at 7:30 p. m. Last year Stone House Day was attended by hundreds of visitors. A large attendance is expected this year also as announcements of the event have been distributed widely throughout New England and the Middle Atlantic States.

Bodine Rifle Added To Memorial House

New Palitz, July 24—The famous Col. John Bodine rifle has become the possession of the Memorial House under the provision of the will of August Tschirky. He was the son of the late Oscar Tschirky world renowned as the famous Oscar of the Waldorf. The rifle is the one used by Col. Bodine in the International shooting contest and to make the shot that won the championship for the United States Team.

After the death of Col. Bodine it became a part of the Elting Harp Collection and was in turn purchased from the estate by Tschirky.

Col. Bodine was such a highly esteemed marksman that each manufacturer made him a gift of a special gun. The rifle will be on display at the Memorial House.

Mayors Convene Here

New Palitz, July 24—On Tuesday evening, July 21, a meeting of mayors from the vicinity was called to hear Anthony Sansone. The purpose was to discuss the possibility of an association of mayors of the surrounding communities to study common problems. Sansone, village attorney from Mamaroneck, told of a similar association in Westchester county. A Chamber of Commerce meeting scheduled for the same evening in the trustee's room at the municipal building was postponed until July 28.

Meeting Postponed

New Palitz, July 24—The town meeting for New Palitz has been postponed until the third Thursday, Aug. 23. The regular meeting day, the second Thursday of the month, the later date will enable more members to be present.

Village Notes

New Palitz, July 24—Mr. and Mrs. Francis R. Hasbrouck announce the birth of a son, Brian Robert, at Kingston Hospital Friday, July 17. This is the first son for the Hasbroucks.

The birth of Gary Holmes is announced by Mr. and Mrs. Robert Holmes July 17, at Kingston Hospital. Ronald VanderHeide of Scarsdale spent the last week as guest of his aunt, Mrs. Eugene Trautwein, Sr.

The Harold De Puys, who are enjoying a vacation, last week visited the Eugene Trautweins, Jr. in Sacramento, Calif., recently.

The De Puys report that they were advised not to visit Yosemite National Park because the altitude and the heat would cause car trouble.

Mrs. Edith Hoerner has been visiting her aunt, Miss Margaret Newton for three weeks. She returned to Lake Worth, Fla., Thursday.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Bowles, Mrs. Helen Smith and Robert, and Mrs. I. D. Sutton have returned from the Brant Lake in upstate New York.

Pfc. Joseph Foley received his discharge from the armed forces at Fort Dix Wednesday, July 22. He returned from Tokyo recently, landing in California Tuesday. His plane was forced down in Arizona for repair. He landed at Fort Devens Friday.

Mrs. John Christensen journeyed to Titusville, Pa., last week to attend the funeral of her sister-in-law Mrs. Carl O. Woerner. Mr. Woerner accompanied Mrs. Christensen to New Palitz Tuesday, July 14, and remained for a visit of several days.

Mrs. Robert Swain entertained Friday afternoon for Mrs. Thomas McKinney of Ohioville. Those invited to meet Mrs. McKinney were Mrs. Robert Lang, Mrs. Robert Pyle, Mrs. Richard Redfern, Mrs. Richard Ordway, Mrs. Albert Kerr, Mrs. Durlin Wade and Mrs. William Jay. Mrs. Edna Frandsen assisted her daughter in entertaining.

On Saturday evening, July 18, the Eugene Links of Mulberry street invited friends over to enjoy a musical evening on the terrace. Each couple was asked to bring a favorite record to share. Those attending were Dean and Mrs. George Angell, the Victor Landaus, the Kelly Campbells, the Albert Kerrs, and the William Jays.

Tardy Twosome

Enid, Okla. (AP)—Mrs. Ed Smith had the last laugh on her husband. She let her driver's license expire May 1 and remembered it a couple of weeks later. Her husband reprimanded her saying: "There's no excuse for that." Then you guessed it—Smith checked his own driver's license and discovered it had expired a year before.

No Crime for Crimebusters

Newkirk, Okla. (AP)—Kay County Sheriff Roy Welch complains his crime-busting business has fallen off so much that all he and his deputies have to do is serve legal papers and deliver mental patients to hospitals. Welch says that for the first time since 1938 there is not a single prisoner in the county jail.

Handwriting on Wall

Taipei, Formosa (AP)—Chinese Nationalists say the figure "4" is appearing more and more on walls in Red China despite the fact that anyone who writes it risks death. The figure is a numerical abbreviation of four characters that mean "Communist bandits must perish."

Canine Ranger

West Glacier, Mont. (AP)—Joy, a sad-eyed bloodhound, is now a Glacier National Park ranger. The dog was given a medal recently certifying it as a ranger for finding the body of a man buried by a snow avalanche on the park's Going-to-the-Sun Highway.

The College Spirit

Roseville, Calif. (AP)—Panties and brassieres disappeared from closets, and Police Chief McCrory was pretty piqued when a 17-year-old boy admitted the thefts. "We just can't allow these pantsy raids to go on," Chief McCrory declared. "After all, there isn't even a college around here."

Sealing Gutter Joints

Leaky joints between sections of gutters and downspouts can be sealed with a little roofing cement.

The OZARK*New Designs for Modern Furniture Truly Modern. Free of Frills

A resourceful New York designer has developed easy-to-follow plans for a fresh new group of versatile plywood furniture pieces that can brighten any room setting in your home at amazingly little cost. Characterized by clean modern lines, frankness of design and straight-forward construction, every piece is so simple to build that an amateur can do a professional looking job.

Smart looking, practical and adaptable, these units can be finished with contrasting decorator colors and other modern do-it-at-home finishes. They will add a spot of color in any room in the house and the simplicity of design makes it possible to use them with either a traditional or contemporary room decor.

For Hobby-Size Panels. Designed by Norman Cherner, every piece can be built with the new hobby-size fir plywood panels which are 24 1/2 feet and smaller. The new small sizes called handy panels minimize cutting and left-overs can be handled easily in even small pieces.

The group includes a desk, coffee table, dining room buffet, vanity and end-table. The parts for the desk, buffet and vanity can be combined or interchanged to get several treatments or multiplied in a series of units for a storage wall.

Every piece can be built for remarkably little expense and the desk should not cost more than $16. (National average based on latest available Chicago retail sales for fir plywood compiled by leading trade magazines; prices may vary depending upon sources of supply.) Plans are available at your local lumber dealer or send 10 cents to Douglas Fir Plywood Association, Tacoma, Wash.

Concrete Flooring O.K.

The use of concrete floor slabs in basementless houses does not detract from the beauty of the floor design in the dwelling's rooms. Flagstones set into concrete, the use of asphalt tile, or other flooring materials are popular and attractive methods for finishing the floors. Properly insulated, concrete floors can be kept warm and dry and carpeting can be laid over the concrete floor without the danger of mildew common with floors not adequately insulated.

Choose Cooler Colors

Rooms with a western exposure are generally the warmest—particularly during the afternoon. For this reason, it is usually wise to select cool colors for their walls and woodwork. When choosing the paint color, remember that toward evening, the light becomes soft and seems to mellow all colors. Earlier, it is brilliant and will make a great color change in the room unless soft tones have been selected.

Keeping Boiler Clean

To prevent excessive lime deposits, hot water or steam heating systems, fresh water should not be added to the boiler unless absolutely necessary, since the "scale" water has had all the lime boiled out of it.

Stopping Basement Leak

Water often gets into a basement through the seams between the basement floor and the wall. This usually can be fixed by cutting out the seam with a cold chisel so that a wedge-shaped crevice is formed and then packing the crevice with cement mortar, tar or asphalt.

Plywood Fence Has Basketweave Look

Nothing can spoil the relaxed enjoyment of outdoor living and dining faster than too many "next door" spectators.

One of the simplest answers is a windscreen and fence around the patio or terrace in the back yard. Here is an interesting design with which you can weave a little privacy around you and your family.

It consists of wide horizontal panels of exterior plywood laced through supporting posts in a handsome basket weave effect. The panels are secured to alternating sides of posts with a floating spreader in between to give the fence its unusual appearance.

This is just one of six plans for plywood screens and fences with which you can dress up your outdoors. All are designed for building with exterior plywood with waterproof glue. Write Douglas Fir Plywood Association, Tacoma, Wash., for the descriptive folder outlining what is available.

Built-in Rule on Bench

A rule has a way of getting lost or covered with shavings of what not on a workbench. Much time can be saved by mortising a good quality yardstick into the edge of the bench in the manner used on drygoods counters. Or measure off carefully and mark the edge of the bench with India ink, covering the strip with a coat of thin shellac or varnish.

Enameling Over Stain

To prevent old mahogany and walnut stains from "bleeding through" a new coat of enamel, remove any surface gloss with sandpaper, then apply a thin coat of shellac. After two hours or more, sand lightly and brush on enamel undercoater. When this is thoroughly dry, the enamel can be applied.

If, like so many families planning to build a home of their own, you're looking for a house that has three bedrooms, you've one good reason right there for building "The Ozark." Two of the bedrooms, located in the right wing of the house, measure 13'4" x 11' and feature excellent cross ventilation and storage space.

The third bedroom is so designed that it can serve as a guest room or den if you so prefer. This room, too, has a large closet and good cross ventilation. Of course, throughout "The Ozark" there is an abundance of windows for this is as typical an architectural feature of a ranch type house as its low, rambling lines.

You are also certain to approve of the generous amount of centrally located storage space, including both a linen closet and handy linen storage drawers. And after the heating plant and the laundry are installed in the basement, you'll find there will be still more space you can use for storage if you so desire.

An interesting and somewhat different interior feature of "The Ozark" is the arrangement of the living-dining room. While actually a part of the living room, the dining area is so planned that it gives the appearance of being a separate room.

The large picture window, flanked by casement windows, the back wall helps to make the dining section unusually bright, cheerful and attractive. And, if the house site is carefully selected, this window can really be a "picture" by providing a beautiful view.

Back Sun Deck

Fixing-up the back sun deck so that it will best serve your purposes and at the same time be just as attractive as you want it to be, gives you the opportunity to use your ingenuity. If you'd like to be able to entertain in the back yard during the warm weather, why not build a room around the deck. In this case an outdoor fireplace would be a necessity, of course; with a little time and effort you can build it yourself.

As a matter of fact to give appeal to the outside of a rather plain house such as "The Ozark," a well-cared-for lawn and gardens are "musts." This landscaping is another challenge to your ingenuity, for it gives you the opportunity to give something of your own personality to your home. Thus, the owner of "The Ozark" has a big advantage over many other home owners because he has a house fashioned along straight and simple lines always in good taste in any location—yet one that he can make pleasantly individualistic.

For plan prices, write to the Home Building Editor, Dept. 24, Kingston Daily Freeman and encl. a self-addressed, 3c stamped envelope. Allow 7 to 10 days for a reply.

Extra Shower in Cellar

An extra shower in the basement helps keep the whole house cleaner, the Plumbing and Heating Industries Bureau advises. When youngsters come in from play or even from the beach, it is easy to steer them to the basement shower and thus keep the dirt away from the rest of the house. Low-cost metal prefabricated shower cabinets are available that are ideal for use in basements, garages or summer cottages.

BANKER-DIPLOMAT

Robert Spencer Robertson, who came to prominence recently when he persuaded unpredictable President Syngman Rhee to agree to abide by terms of a truce in Korea, has been a diplomat since the days of World War II. He served in Australia as the head of our Lend-Lease mission and in China as coordinator of our civilian war agencies there.

The job of reaching an agreement with Rhee was not easy. It called for the highest powers of tact and persuasion and for the ability to respect and sympathize with the position of the President of the Republic of Korea. Robertson succeeded after all other efforts had failed.

Before he became a diplomat he was a successful banker in Richmond, Virginia. According to a story in the New York Times he would like to return to that job. It is easy to understand why. The life of a diplomat is hard, the reward for honest effort is too frequently only criticism. The public servant, who has been successful in private life, often suffers financially because of the low government salaries.

But a good citizen must fulfill his duty to the best of his ability in any capacity in which he is asked to serve. Walter Spencer Robertson is such a citizen and his efforts may help to speed the day when he, and all other millions of Americans who have had to put their personal lives in the background, can return to the things they really want to do.

BUILT-IN PERILS

The National Association of Home Builders is trying to make the public aware of some of the accident dangers which may be built into new homes. The association believes that a little forethought can prevent many of the serious accidents which occur in homes every year.

Narrow steps are a frequent cause of accidents. People familiar with the steps sometimes grow careless, those who are not familiar with them often suffer serious falls. Sunken living rooms, when there are not enough steps to make the transition from the higher level to the lower one, can also be dangerous. Sidewalks often prove to be bobby-trapped.

Paints with lead bases are not good where there are youngsters of the age when they might chew at low windowsills. It is one thing to say that children shouldn't do it. But that is no consolation once the damage is done.

There always will be people who will smoke in bed or who will leave poisonous medicines in medicines cabinets. But the National Association of Home Builders, through its campaign of education for the public, is making an effort to keep the building hazards down.

Life is not so simple as it once was. It is much more difficult to make excuses for not cutting the lawn with the new power mower than it was when we had the old hand-driven variety.

LOST LEAMINGTON

Sadly the mayor of Leamington, Ontario, informed his town council that the maps of the American Automobile Association do not show their town. They have decided to write to the association and request that future maps include it. Said the mayor:

"We should point out that No. 3 Highway is a scenic route, passing through Leamington, the largest town between Windsor and Niagara Falls. The route is in good condition all the way and we should not be omitted."

Many a pleasant little town feels hurt because some other similar community gets bigger letters on the maps. But it is doubtful if they are entirely lost. If the sign at their approach is in good order, if the town itself is attractive, with pleasant homes, neat tourist homes, clean, smart restaurants and a good store or two, if the traffic is well handled, the chances are that many a tourist who hardly looks at a map will remember it with pleasure. The inhabitant's individual atten-

'These Days'

By GEORGE SOKOLSKY

Dr. Robert L. Johnson, who has resigned from the International Information Administration, has, during his short period as head of that organization, faced unbelievable pressures to take positions with which he could not have been wholly in agreement.

For a while, his attitude might well have been described as positively anti-Communist. In numerous discussions with him on the future of the IIA and the Voice of America, I reached the conclusion that here is the man who could rescue this propaganda agency from the spiritual corruption of Communist infiltration without sacrificing an iota of American freedom.

Dr. Johnson went along with such a program during the conversation I had with him on July 2. Then he suddenly resigned from the Directorship of the IIA and his attitude toward the problem took a new turn, which, I am certain, is a response to pressures from the White House, the State Department, and possibly the CIA. At any rate, the change in attitude was so sudden as to be startling and came during an interim period preceding his return to private life.

For instance, this sentence appears in a statement Dr. Johnson issued on July 15 and is not understandable in view of the fact that he had solicited and received Senator McCarthy's aid and cooperation in developing a new program for the IIA. Johnson said:

"... I merely point out that it is one of the tragic ironies of our time that some of those who are in the forefront of the fight against Communism are among those who are damaging the action programs that do battle against it."

This is the opposite of Dr. Johnson's attitude when he succeeded in getting McCarthy to suspend hearings before his committee on Voice of America and Overseas Libraries personnel. Johnson desired and received a moratorium so that he could have time to reorganize his agency and receive adequate appropriations. It is the new line of the anti-anti-Communists. It is the line that Senator Herbert Lehman takes, although Communists were hired by UNRRA when he was its director. It gives a new twist to the discussion. If one says, "Alger Hiss," the other says "How do I know you're not one, too?"

This is a phase of the campaign to destroy McCarthy, his staff, his friends and associates. Every agency available was mobilized in this effort. The aim was to tar the anti-Communists as hidden Communists. Had it succeeded, every man who has been an effective worker against Communists would be out of commission.

Every witness, both in trials in court and before Congressional committees, in such matters as the Alger Hiss and Remington cases and in the trials of Communists and spies in New York and Los Angeles, was uncovered, in part by the FBI, and in part by the devotion and sacrifice of these organized anti-Communists and ex-Communists.

In this work, Dr. J. B. Matthews, since 1938, has been the leader of a valiant band. It is ironic that Matthews should have come about of what is termed an exaggeration, as, over the years, he has been critical of those whose enthusiasm led them to exaggerate or to blink at a fact to make a point. Actually, Matthews is the victim of circumstances. His article was resurrected as an element in the first round of a battle between Senator McCarthy and Chief of Staff Sherman Adams. The real issue was not Matthews but the CIA. The hubbub was accelerated over Matthews to destroy McCarthy before his Committee raised the question of the right of Congress to investigate any agency of government.

Who won that round only time will show. Who lost in this field is, of course, the referee, Vice President Richard Nixon. He has built a reputation as the accepted mediator among Republicans, particularly in differences between Congress and the White House. He was praised on all sides for his impartiality and keen understanding. In this fight, Nixon joined Adams against McCarthy and helped to make Matthews the goat.

Nixon owes his career to the anti-Communists who boosted him as a Lochinvar when he served on the House Committee on Un-American Activities. Now he is regarded by the anti-Communists as just another politician. He has forgotten that Matthews' investigations laid the foundation of his career. ## GOVERNMENT AIDS ATTACK ON ARTHRITIS

It may seem strange to many of us that the oldest disease known to man, rheumatism and arthritis, still afflicts such a large proportion of our people. In fact, we have grown so used to seeing the crippling effects of arthritis and rheumatism among friends and acquaintances that we do not have the sympathy we show to those afflicted with diseases more recent, such as heart and blood vessel diseases.

However, physicians and government are waking up to the fact that despite the fact that rheumatism and arthritis seem to be always with us, much can be done to prevent these diseases and also to give relief to those already afflicted. I have written before of the government grants to prevent arthritis and to aid those afflicted; it is interesting to learn of the practical manner in which this government money is spent.

In the News and Notes Department, Canadian Medical Association Journal, we read that an extension of the attack on arthritis and rheumatism to parts of Ontario not previously served by clinics and an expansion of services where clinics already operate is in prospect with $65,000 available for use by the Ontario division.

A new mobile unit, the unit of special physiotherapists, which can go right into the area and where the patient cannot come to the clinic these physiotherapists go right into the home and give the necessary treatment to the patient and advice to the family. It is hoped that this dramatic method of helping arthritis will have proved its value within a year and that local branches of the Arthritis Society will be developed to carry on the work.

"Medical authorities claim that serious crippling and disability from arthritis and rheumatism can be prevented in about four cases out of five provided the disease is diagnosed early and proper treatment is started at once. The stationary clinics are thus providing an essential service by giving general practitioners a place to which they can refer cases for further examination at a modest cost. The mobile clinics enable many arthritides to obtain a treatment at home, thus reducing the pressure on hospitals and cutting the cost to the individual who might otherwise face long hospitalization."

When we remember that those formerly always fatal diseases, diabetes and pernicious anemia, can now be controlled, and remember that most arthritides can be helped and four out of five cases prevented by early diagnosis and treatment, it can be seen that the government aid to the Arthritis and Rheumatism Society is indeed well invested money.

There's No Question Here If We Know Our Uncle

Edson's Washington News Notebook

By PETER EDSON

NEA Washington Correspondent

Washington (NEA) — Former Republican Congressman Albert M. Cole of Kansas sat in his big, green, deeply upholstered leather chair, behind his great big walnut desk in the office of the Housing and Home Finance Administration, and he was talking to me about his new job for over four months, but this was his first press conference.

He had called it to announce that he was starting a two-months' series of "shirt-sleeve" conferences with literally hundreds of people who wanted to talk about government housing programs.

The Eisenhower administration had not advised him what his housing policy was to be, said Administrator Cole right at the start. So he was going to have to study the whole question and then come to some conclusions. He would make his recommendations to the White House next fall, and then come up with a program to present to Congress next year.

In other words, this was to be the education of another new, top Republican official. He would give everyone a chance to talk to him — off the record and in confidence. Public interest groups, housing industry groups, builders, architects, engineers, home finance men, bankers, union labor leaders, church groups, and welfare workers.

Mr. Cole observed that he had certain prejudices in the field of housing. But these talks would give people who disagreed with him a chance to do so. What he wanted to emphasize was that the areas of disagreement might not be as great as some people said they were.

He wasn't going to sweep aside

everything that the government had done in housing in the past. But he wasn't going to take the old agencies and the old laws and try to carry on the old housing programs with the tools that he had. He wanted to come up with something new.

Why Begin Study Now?
A reporter asked the administrator why it was that he was just getting around to his survey now. He had been on the job five months, and this survey sounded as if it should have been the first order of business. What had he been doing all this time?

It hadn't been five months, but only four, Mr. Cole corrected. And he had been awfully busy in that time. First there was the budget for this year's operations to take care of. Then there was the extension of expiring housing legislation to take care of and the half-billion increase in home loan insurance.

Finally there had been the matter of raising the interest rate on Federal Housing Administration mortgages. That had taken end less conferences. The increase in interest rates had been only one-quarter of one per cent, up to a four and one-half per cent maximum, but already the housing administrator has caught plenty of criticism for that one.

In summary, Mr. Cole said he had been working from eight o'clock in the morning to six and seven o'clock at night, five and six days a week, and sometimes Sunday. And he was just now getting around to making his general study of the housing situation.

"Does the job look any different to you now than it did when you were in Congress?" a reporter asked.

"It looks a lot different down

here," said Mr. Cole frankly.

Honest Confession

Now this was a most interesting and honest confession. When Mr. Cole was in Congress, he was one of the most outspoken critics of government housing programs. He had a consistent voting record in opposition to public housing from 1949 through 1952, when he lost out in his race for re-election to Congress.

He was ticked as an opponent of government housing programs. His record was such that public housing advocates tried to prevent his confirmation as housing administrator. But now, here he was saying that things looked different when the responsibility was his.

Mr. Cole explained this in more detail. In Congress, he said he had voted on broad housing policy as it was viewed by his constituents and his obligations to them.

Now, as housing administrator, the decisions that cross his desk were more personal. They affected cities, the operations of building corporations, and the social and economic welfare of thousands of people.

All this shows what a change from local to national viewpoint will do. It shows the sobering influence of responsibility. But if you want to know what the new housing administrator's new policies are, you'll have to wait till next year.

Questions—Answers

Q—What use does the Gila monster make of its tail?

A—It is a food reservoir.

Q—Why is the Pacific Ocean generally rougher than the Atlantic?

A—The greater expanse of open water lets bigger waves build up under the same wind forces.

Q—Does the Korean language have an alphabet?

A—It has an alphabet of 11 vowels and 14 consonants.

Quebec Painters Watchful

Quebec (AP) — Quebec may be the only city in Canada where a man likes to check with the town planning commission before putting a new color of paint on his house. It is part of running a city where old things are sacred and modern development is pushing at the gates. Of the 1,238 buildings standing when the British took over from the French about 200 years ago, 1,114 still stand.

Quebec's historical societies, watchdogs of historic monuments, and business men who cater to thousands of tourists, view with alarm the trend to modernization. The city administration policy is development of new housing and industrial areas outside the city's historic section, and strict control over construction inside.

Do You Remember

By SOPHIE MILLER

I see many youngsters home from college, as they preen and ooze like happy pigeons and incessantly turn on the "college talk" about their recent experiences in this new, wonderful fairland type of life. Their parents are a little at a loss to know what their offsprings are talking about, unless they too had the same experiences in their youth, and then they smile tolerantly and know all too well, that those special years fly by very quickly. A small percentage of the college students achieve their desired goal, others fall by the wayside in respectable, mediocre jobs for the rest of their lives. It is interesting to watch, in a city like Kingston, where most folks know each other, who really "sets the world on fire" with brilliant achievement such as Arthur Flemming did, a Kingston High School graduate. Joe Hazen, a Roundout boy set out from our local schools to be vice-president of Warner Brothers Movie studios in Hollywood and later joined Hal Wallis in his own producing company. Then seeing some of his pictures achieve four star acclaim and having the pleasure of finding and building up new stars for the movie industry. I wonder which ones of the 1953 crop of "home from college" youngsters will achieve some form of national acclaim for their knowledge or talents.

Some old timers were discussing "ice harvesting" in the old days which was profitable for boatmen who otherwise would be out of work during the winter. No doubt many of the readers remember when large ice houses dotted the shores of the Hudson river around here, which they say, employed perhaps several thousand men.

The old Transport Hotel, opposite the ferry shed of the Rhinebeck ferry, which was located next door to Carl Fischer's Hotel, was patronized by railroad and Hudson rivermen. Fischer later bought the Transport Hotel and made it a part of his own hotel establishment. Fischer's mother superintended the food and hotel and made sure her guests had plenty to eat. If Fischer saw that a guest in his restaurant cleaned off his plate, he sent out for another portion, "on the house." No one ever went away hungry from Carl Fischer's place, river-boatmen and railroad men in those days could eat. A meal, as I remember it at Fischer's, when I went there with my father, cost about 25 cents, and we were served about eight courses, on many more plates and everything delicious. I never had to be coaxed to eat in such restaurants, as I liked the excitement and being served the grown up foods. Fischer used to greet my father with a friendly bow, and often call him "Herr Ginzburg" which amused them both, and although I was around 10 or 11, they treated me with grown up courtesy of a young lady and paid special attention to my wants for dessert. I thought it was quite wonderful.

I was asked recently if a lottery was ever used for a public purpose in Kingston. I think if historians go back to the burning of Kingston by the British in 1777 there seems to be records that a lottery was granted soon after to provide some 2,000 pounds for rebuilding of the Court House on the same original site as of 1732. Perhaps Captain Hickey or other local historians have more on the local lottery rebuild the Court House as I have no details on it.

BANKER-DIPLOMAT

Robert Spencer Robertson, who came to prominence recently when he persuaded unpredictable President Syngman Rhee to agree to abide by terms of a truce in Korea, has been a diplomat since the days of World War II. He served in Australia as the head of our Lend-Lease mission and in China as coordinator of our civilian war agencies there.

The job of reaching an agreement with Rhee was not easy. It called for the highest powers of tact and persuasion and for the ability to respect and sympathize with the position of the President of the Republic of Korea. Robertson succeeded after all other efforts had failed.

Before he became a diplomat he was a successful banker in Richmond, Virginia. According to a story in the New York Times he would like to return to that job. It is easy to understand why. The life of a diplomat is hard, the reward for honest effort is too frequently only criticism. The public servant, who has been successful in private life, often suffers financially because of the low government salaries.

But a good citizen must fulfill his duty to the best of his ability in any capacity in which he is asked to serve. Walter Spencer Robertson is such a citizen and his efforts may help to speed the day when he, and all other millions of Americans who have had to put their personal lives in the background, can return to the things they really want to do.

BUILT-IN PERILS

The National Association of Home Builders is trying to make the public aware of some of the accident dangers which may be built into new homes. The association believes that a little forethought can prevent many of the serious accidents which occur in homes every year.

Narrow steps are a frequent cause of accidents. People familiar with the steps sometimes grow careless, those who are not familiar with them often suffer serious falls. Sunken living rooms, when there are not enough steps to make the transition from the higher level to the lower one, can also be dangerous. Sidewalks often prove to be bobby-trapped.

Paints with lead bases are not good where there are youngsters of the age when they might chew at low windowsills. It is one thing to say that children shouldn't do it. But that is no consolation once the damage is done.

There always will be people who will smoke in bed or who will leave poisonous medicines in medicines cabinets. But the National Association of Home Builders, through its campaign of education for the public, is making an effort to keep the building hazards down.

Life is not so simple as it once was. It is much more difficult to make excuses for not cutting the lawn with the new power mower than it was when we had the old hand-driven variety.

LOST LEAMINGTON

Sadly the mayor of Leamington, Ontario, informed his town council that the maps of the American Automobile Association do not show their town. They have decided to write to the association and request that future maps include it. Said the mayor:

"We should point out that No. 3 Highway is a scenic route, passing through Leamington, the largest town between Windsor and Niagara Falls. The route is in good condition all the way and we should not be omitted."

Many a pleasant little town feels hurt because some other similar community gets bigger letters on the maps. But it is doubtful if they are entirely lost. If the sign at their approach is in good order, if the town itself is attractive, with pleasant homes, neat tourist homes, clean, smart restaurants and a good store or two, if the traffic is well handled, the chances are that many a tourist who hardly looks at a map will remember it with pleasure. The inhabitant's individual atten-

'These Days'

By GEORGE SOKOLSKY

Dr. Robert L. Johnson, who has resigned from the International Information Administration, has, during his short period as head of that organization, faced unbelievable pressures to take positions with which he could not have been wholly in agreement.

For a while, his attitude might well have been described as positively anti-Communist. In numerous discussions with him on the future of the IIA and the Voice of America, I reached the conclusion that here is the man who could rescue this propaganda agency from the spiritual corruption of Communist infiltration without sacrificing an iota of American freedom.

Dr. Johnson went along with such a program during the conversation I had with him on July 2. Then he suddenly resigned from the Directorate of the IIA and his attitude toward the problem took a new turn, which, I am certain, is a response to pressures from the White House, the State Department, and possibly the CIA. At any rate, the change in attitude was so sudden as to be startling and came during an interim period preceding his return to private life.

For instance, this sentence appears in a statement Dr. Johnson issued on July 15 and is not understandable in view of the fact that he had solicited and received Senator McCarthy's aid and cooperation in developing a new program for the IIA, Johnson said:

"... I merely point out that it is one of the tragic ironies of our time that some of those who are in the forefront of the fight against Communism are among those who are damaging the action programs that do battle against it."

This is the opposite of Dr. Johnson's attitude when he succeeded in getting McCarthy to suspend hearings before his committee on Voice of America and Overseas Libraries personnel. Johnson desired and received a moratorium so that he could have time to reorganize his agency and receive adequate appropriations. It is the new line of the anti-anti-Communists. It is the line that Senator Herbert Lehman takes, although Communists were hired by UNRRA when he was its director. It gives a new twist to the discussion. If one says, "Alger Hiss," the other says, "How do I know you're not one, too?"

This is a phase of the campaign to destroy McCarthy, his staff, his friends and associates. Every agency available was mobilized in this effort. The aim was to tar the anti-Communists as hidden Communists. Had it succeeded, every man who has been an effective worker against Communists would be out of commission.

Every witness, both in trials in court and before Congressional committees, in such matters as the Alger Hiss and Remington cases and in the trials of Communists and spies in New York and Los Angeles, was uncovered, in part by the FBI, and in part by the devotion and sacrifice of these organizations of anti-Communists and ex-Communists.

In this work, Dr. J. B. Matthews, since 1938, has been the leader of a valiant band. It is ironic that Matthews should have come afoul of what is termed an exaggeration, as, over the years, he has been critical of those whose enthusiasm led them to exaggerate or to blink at a fact to make a point.

Actually, Matthews is the victim of circumstance. His article was resurrected as an element in the first round of a battle between Senator McCarthy and Chief of Staff Sherman Adams. The real issue was not Matthews but the CIA. The hubbub was accelerated over Matthews to destroy McCarthy before his Committee raised the question of the right of Congress to investigate any agency of government.

Who wins this round only time will show. Who lost in this fight is, of course, the referee, Vice President Richard Nixon. He has built a reputation as the accepted mediator among Republicans, particularly in differences between Congress and the White House. He was praised on all sides for his impartiality and keen understanding. In this fight, Nixon joined Adams against McCarthy and helped to make Matthews the goat.

Nixon owes his career to the anti-Communists who boosted him as a Lochinvar when he served on the House Committee on Un-American Activities. Now he is regarded by the anti-Communists as just another politician. He has forgotten that Matthews' investigations laid the foundation of his career.

That Body of Yours

By JAMES W. BARTON, M.D.

GOVERNMENT AIDS ATTACK ON ARTHRITIS
It may seem strange to many of us that the oldest disease known to man, rheumatism and arthritis, still afflicts such a large proportion of our people. In fact, we have grown so used to seeing the crippling effects of arthritis and rheumatism among friends and acquaintances that we do not have the sympathy we show to those afflicted with diseases more recent, such as heart and blood vessel diseases.

However, physicians and government are waking up to the fact that despite the fact that rheumatism and arthritis seem to be always with us, much can be done to prevent these diseases and also to give relief to those already afflicted.

I have written before of the government grants to prevent arthritis and to aid those afflicted; it is interesting to learn of the practical manner in which this government money is spent.

In the News and Notes Department, Canadian Medical Association Journal, we read that an extension of the attack on arthritis and rheumatism to parts of Ontario not previously served by clinics and an expansion of services where clinics already operate is in prospect with $65,000 available for use by the Ontario division.

A new mobile unit, the unit of special physiotherapists, which can go right into the area and where the patient cannot come to the clinic these physiotherapists go right into the home and give the necessary treatment to the patient and advice to the family. It is hoped that this dramatic method of helping arthritis will have proved its value within a year and that local branches of the Arthritis Society will be developed to carry on the work.

Medical authorities claim that serious crippling and disability from arthritis and rheumatism can be prevented in about four cases out of five provided the disease is diagnosed early and proper treatment is started at once. The stationary clinics are thus providing an essential service by giving general practitioners a place to which they can refer cases for further examination at a modest cost. The mobile clinics enable many arthritis to obtain a treatment at home, thus reducing the pressure on hospitals and cutting the cost to the individual who might otherwise face long hospitalization.

When we remember that those formerly always fatal diseases, diabetes and pernicious anemia, can now be controlled, and remember that most arthritis can be helped and four out of five cases prevented by early diagnosis and treatment, it can be seen that the government aid to the Arthritis and Rheumatism Society is indeed well invested money.

There's No Question Here If We Know Our Uncle

Edson's Washington News Notebook

By PETER EDSON

NEA Washington Correspondent
Washington (NEA) — Former Republican Congressman Albert M. Cole of Kansas sat in his big, green, deeply upholstered, leather chair, behind his great big walnut desk in the office of the Housing and Home Finance administrator, Mr. Cole had been on this job for over four months, but this was his first press conference.

He had called it to announce that he was starting a two-months' series of "shirt-sleeve" conferences with literally hundreds of people who wanted to talk about government housing programs.

The Eisenhower administration had not advised him what its housing policy was to be, said Administrator Cole right at the start. So he was going to have to study the whole question and then come to some conclusions. He would make his recommendations to the White House next fall, and then come up with a program to present to Congress next year.

In other words, this was to be the education of another new, top Republican official. He would give everyone a chance to talk to him — off the record and in confidence. Public interest groups, housing industry groups, builders, architects, engineers, home finance men, bankers, union labor leaders, church groups, and welfare workers.

Mr. Cole observed that he had certain prejudices in the field of housing. But these talks would give people who disagreed with him a chance to do so. What he wanted to emphasize was that the areas of disagreement might not be as great as some people said they were.

He wasn't going to sweep aside

everything that the government had done in housing in the past. But he wasn't going to take the old agencies and the old laws and try to carry on the old housing programs with the tools that he had. He wanted to come up with something new.

Why Begin Study Now?
A reporter asked the administrator why it was that he was just getting around to his survey now. He had been on the job five months, and this survey sounded as if it should have been the first order of business. What had he been doing all this time?

It hadn't been five months, but only four, Mr. Cole corrected. And he had been awfully busy in that time. First there was the budget for this year's operations to take care of. Then there was the extension of expiring housing legislation to take care of and the half-billion increase in home loan insurance.

Finally there had been the matter of raising the interest rate on Federal Housing Administration mortgages. That had taken endless conferences. The increase in interest rates had been only one-quarter of one per cent, up to a four and one-half per cent maximum, but already the housing administrator has caught plenty of criticism for that one.

In summary, Mr. Cole said he had been working from eight o'clock in the morning to six and seven o'clock at night, five and six days a week and sometimes Sunday. And he was just now getting around to making his general study of the housing situation.

"Does the job look any different to you now than it did when you were in Congress?" a reporter asked.

"It looks a lot different down

here," said Mr. Cole frankly.

Honest Confession

Now this was a most interesting and honest confession. When Mr. Cole was in Congress, he was one of the most outspoken critics of government housing programs. He had a consistent voting record in opposition to public housing from 1949 through 1952, when he lost out in his race for re-election to Congress.

He was ticked as an opponent of government housing programs. His record was such that public housing advocates tried to prevent his confirmation as housing administrator. But now, here he was saying that things looked different when the responsibility was his.

Mr. Cole explained this in more detail. In Congress, he said he had voted on broad housing policy as it was viewed by his constituents and his obligations to them. Now, as housing administrator, the decisions that cross his desk were more personal. They affected cities, the operations of building corporations, and the social and economic welfare of thousands of people.

All this shows what a change from local to national viewpoint will do. It shows the sobering influence of responsibility. But if you want to know what the new housing administrator's new policies are, you'll have to wait till next year.

Quebec Painters Watchful

Quebec (AP) — Quebec may be the only city in Canada where a man likes to check with the town planning commission before putting a new color of paint on his house. It is part of running a city where old things are sacred and modern development is pushing at the gates. Of the 1,238 buildings standing when the British took over from the French about 200 years ago, 1,114 still stand. Quebec's historical societies, watchdogs of historic monuments, and business men who cater to thousands of tourists, view with alarm the trend to modernization. The city administration policy is development of new housing and industrial areas outside the city's historic section, and strict control over construction inside.

Do You Remember

By SOPHIE MILLER

I see many youngsters home from college, as they preen and ooze like happy pigeons and incessantly turn on the "college talk" about their recent experiences in this new, wonderful fairland type of life. Their parents are a little at a loss to know what their offsprings are talking about, unless they too had the same experiences in their youth, and then they smile tolerantly and know all too well, that those special years fly by very quickly. A small percentage of the college students achieve their desired goal, others fall by the wayside in respectable, mediocre jobs for the rest of their lives. It is interesting to watch, in a city like Kingston, where most folks know each other, who really "sets the world on fire" with brilliant achievement such as Arthur Flemming did, a Kingston High School graduate. Joe Hazen, a Rondout boy set out from our local schools to be vice-president of Warner Brothers Movie Studios in Hollywood and later joined Hal Wallis in his own producing company. Then seeing some of his pictures achieve four star acclaim and having the pleasure of finding and building up new stars for the movie industry, I wonder which ones of the 1953 crop of "home from college" youngsters will achieve some form of national acclaim for their knowledge or talents.

Some old timers were discussing "ice harvesting" in the old days which was profitable for boatmen who otherwise would be out of work during the winter. No doubt many of the readers remember when large ice houses dotted the shores of the Hudson river around here, which they say, employed perhaps several thousand men.

The old Transport Hotel, opposite the ferry shed of the Rhinebeck ferry, which was located next door to Carl Fischer's Hotel, was patronized by railroad and Hudson rivermen. Fischer later bought the Transport Hotel and made it a part of his own hotel establishment. Fischer's mother superintended the food and hotel and made sure her guests had plenty to eat. If Fischer saw that a guest in his restaurant cleaned off his plate, he sent out for another portion, "on the house." No one ever went away hungry from Carl Fischer's place, river-boatmen and railroad men in those days could eat. A meal, as I remember it, at Fischer's when I went there with my father, cost about 25 cents, and we were served about eight courses, on many more plates and everything delicious. I never had to be coaxed to eat in such restaurants, as I liked the excitement and being served the grown-up foods. Fischer used to greet my father with a friendly bow, and often call him "Herr Ginzburg" which amused them both, and although I was around 10 or 11, they treated me with grown-up courtesy of a young lady and paid special attention to my wants for dessert. I thought it was quite wonderful.

I was asked recently if a lottery was ever used for a public purpose in Kingston. I think if history goes back to the burning of Kingston by the British in 1777 there seems to be records that a lottery was granted soon after to provide some 2,000 pounds for rebuilding of the Court House on the same original site as of 1732. Perhaps Captain Hickey or other local historians have more on the local lottery to rebuild the Court House as I have no details on it.

New York — (NEA) — Transitional cottons are extremely useful during the season of additions to a wardrobe when they look like autumn but feel like summer.

They should be dark, of course, and cool always. They should also convey a hint of clear, blue air and slanting golden sunshine.

We've picked two that we think fill the bill in every respect. And they're the additional attraction of being cut from a fabric that's a happy wedding of nylon and cotton. This means good shape retention and fast recovery from wrinkles.

An appreciative neighbor writes: "I go away for weekends quite often and on several occasions have been driven home by people who were staying at the same resort and who happened to live in the same vicinity as I do. I appreciate being driven home very much, but I am always at a loss to know what is expected of me in return. Would it be proper to offer the driver the price of my train ticket, or perhaps offer to pay for gasoline, toll bridges, etc? Your help in this matter will be much appreciated."

You do nothing but say thank you when you are left at home. You do not offer to pay any of the car expenses when they would have to be paid by the owner anyway.

The Real Reason
Dear Mrs. Post: One of the young men who works here in the office with me has been leading up to asking me for a date. He is a very nice person and I think the world of him, but I do not want to go out with him. He is slightly crippled (and very self-conscious about it) and I'm afraid he might think this is the reason for my not wanting to go out with him. Any day now I expect him to ask me outright to go out with him, and I'm in a panic as to what to say to him without hurting his feelings. Can you help me?

Answer: The question is why don't you want to go with him? Is the fact that he is a cripple the real reason for not wanting to go with him? If this is the case, you can't possibly refuse without hurting his feelings.

Library Fair Is Feature Story in August Magazine

Woodstock, July 24—The story of Woodstock's annual Library Fair is told in a feature article titled "Neighbors," which appears in the August, 1953 issue of The American Home, by the well-known Woodstocker, Mrs. Eva Beard. The article is accompanied by four photographs showing the library building, a shot of a well-known fair troubadour, John Pike, Clem Nessel, Bill Moore and Dave Huffine, and two views of the fair tables.

Following a description of the Library Fair, Mrs. Beard goes on to say that "in the crowd are librarians from miles around, seeking to discover how and why a simple, glorified rummage sale is able, during four hours on a hot July afternoon, to add some $3,000 to the library's treasury. The answer is that the Fair just grew, and everybody works at it. The first was held in 1917, and others up to 1927 brought in a gratifying $200 to $250 each. Then they became annual affairs.

In 1929, Mrs. Walter Weyl, widow of the first editor of the New Republic, gave to the village, in his memory, the little century-old house that is now the library, and on whose grounds the fairs are held. Since 1929 the returns have risen steadily so that in 1948, it was possible to build a $20,000 fireproof addition that added vitally needed space for book storage, a reading room and a children's room—all without changing the appearance of the original building from the front.

Outlines Plans
Mrs. Beard outlines the organization of the fair and tells of the year-long plans made for each fair, how the publicity is handled and the features presented.

"The long, hot afternoon draws to a close," she concludes. "Tables and counters are bare, and buyers stagger away under their loads of purchases as the voice of the auctioneer, disposing of the last few items, is loud on the landscape."

In the national magazine article, Mrs. Beard has given a vivid and timely description of what may be expected to again be repeated when once more the library grounds will be the scene of this year's Fair Thursday, July 30, from 12 noon, to 6 p. m.

Party Night Slated At Club Tonight

Woodstock, July 24—Tonight is party night at the Woodstock Country Club. There will be square dancing to the music of Hoppy and His Saddle Tramps, starting at 8:30 o'clock. A card party also will be held with guests requested to bring their own cards and to arrange their own four-somes if they desire, or to come alone for there will be partners. This also will start at 8:30 p. m.

There is also dancing every Saturday night at the Country Club.

Show Opens Monday

Woodstock, July 24—A one-man show of paintings titled "Spatial Constructions," by Paul Nabb will be open at the Parnassus Square Galleries, with a preview Monday, July 27, from 8 to 10 p. m. The show will continue through August 8.

Ise Sass Featured As Guest Pianist In New Paltz Series

The second in the series of three Chamber music concerts, sponsored by State University Teachers College at New Paltz, will be presented Wednesday, July 29, 8:30 p. m. in the College Union Lounge. Appearing in this second concert will be members of the Woodstock String Quartet, with Ise Sass as guest pianist. Sidney Harth, violinist, will again direct the group with Frank Mele, viola and Engelbert Roentgen, cello, completing the quartet.

Miss Sass was born in Cologne, Germany and graduated with highest degrees from Cologne Music School. Her recital at Times Hall in New York was enthusiastically reviewed. Engelbert Roentgen, an expert on chamber music and has had articles published in various magazines on the subject. Engelbert Roentgen, last year's director of New Paltz concerts, is the son of the pianist and composer, Dr. Julius Roentgen and has toured the continent as a soloist and a member of the Roentgen trio. He is at present assistant conductor of the Minneapolis Symphony Orchestra.

Sidney Harth, director of the current series, was introduced at the initial concert in the series, July 15.

The program for this week's concert will include the Piano Quartet in G Minor, Mozart; String Trio, op. 10, No. 10, Dohnanyi; and Piano Quartet in G Minor, op. 25, Brahms.

Wind Hits Trip

Rye, July 25 (AP)—Ayves Bertrahet, French engineer who took off Wednesday for France in a 15-foot catamaran, got as far as Milton Point near here when his craft was washed ashore by Thursday's wind and rain storm, it was learned today. Bertrahet, 33, expected to sail and drift to his native land in 40 to 60 days. His catamaran is made of two hulls joined under a single deck and equipped with a sail. There was no indication when Bertrahet would take off again. He started from Great Neck, N. Y., on Long Island Sound.

Family Comedy Is Next Attraction

BETTY BRECKENRIDGE

Woodstock, July 24—The long-awaited Broadway tryout of "Some Little Honor," Josephine Bentham's new and bouncing American family comedy, starring Betty Breckenridge, will open at the Woodstock Playhouse Tuesday, July 28, and will continue through Sunday, August 2. Philip Robinson will direct the play.

Some Little Honor presents the riotous dilemma of a suburban housewife whose husband and children have received community recognition for their special talents and who is determined to reap some little honor for herself. How she fares amidst a bedlam of picket lines, senatorial surveys, bank flurries and United Nations complications is told in three acts of topsy-turvy activity—and hilarious dialogue from Miss Bentham's pen.

This is Miss Bentham's second play, her previous comedy being the Broadway success, Janie, and its subsequent motion picture.

Miss Breckenridge will be supported by a cast including Michael Lipton, Alexander Lockwood, Ken Walker, Tom Emory Williams, Louis Criss, Ann Sullivan, Elliott Gould and Lynn Olwin.

The setting for Some Little Honor was created by Playhouse designer R. McDonald Brown, who for the past seven years has designed sets for the Winter Haven Theatre in Florida.

Village Notes

Woodstock, July 24 — Mr. and Mrs. Alex Mitchell of Bloomfield, N. J., are visiting his mother, Mrs. Gladys Mitchell for several days. Mr. and Mrs. David Ackerman of Venice, Fla., are spending a month with Mr. and Mrs. Everett Cashdollar of Wittenberg. Their grandchildren, Patty, Robert and Barbara Lee of Sussex, N. J., will join them soon for two weeks.

Mark Grazer, son of Mr. and Mrs. Roger Grazer of Wittenberg, celebrated his first birthday July 16, and a party was held at his home Saturday. Those attending were Patty Lee, Barbara Anne Bark, Kathy, Jennifer and Joe Formo, Chris Snyder, Bert Winne 3rd, Wendy and Cynthia Schriever and Harry Bernanke.

Services Announced

Woodstock, July 24 — It has been announced that beginning Sunday, July 26, St. Gregory's Episcopal Church on Route 212, the Rev. Herald Swazy, vicar, services will be conducted every Sunday at 11:45 a. m. These services will continue through August. The little chapel now proudly boasts a church bell. It will ring at 11:30 a. m. Sunday, 15 minutes before the hour of service.

YMCA Notes

Boys are now signing up for the trip to Yankee Stadium in New York Friday, August 7. This trip is held by the Y every year in the summer and always attracts large numbers of Kingston boys.

Winning a week all members of the boys' division will have received a souvenir of trips for the remainder of the summer. Some of the following trips will be included in this schedule: Williams Lake, Sportsmans Park, the Runkelbeck Fair, DeWitt Lake, Catskill Game farm. There will be a Hudson River boat or a trip through an interesting business concern or plant.

By the first of August the first part of the boys' swimming program will have been completed. A total of 36 boys are enrolled in this program and instruction is held in the Y pool every Tuesday and Thursday morning. There is still room for more boys and after learning to swim the learners are required to pass the YMCA's swimmer's test. On Tuesday, David Dempsey and Bill Bodenwever passed this test.

Every afternoon before the general swim a tournament has been held in the boys' division game room. So far these tournaments have been won by Robert Dunn and Charles Adler.

New YMCA members in the boys' division include: Bill Quin, John Roberts, Morgan Robert Steeger, Leo Wojcikowski, Steven Zang, Roger Ranschler, Victor Albright and Robert Smith.

Fares Go Up

New York, July 25 (AP)—Fares on city-owned subway and surface lines went up from 10 to 15 cents today. The new rate became effective one minute after midnight. Only tokens will be acceptable on subway and elevated lines. Bus passengers will pay with coin, however, there's still one 5-cent fare left in the metropolitan area: Ferry service from Manhattan to Staten Island.

Food Poisons 137

London, July 25 (AP)—A pre-vacation banquet in a suburban London school today sent 137 children and six teachers into three hospitals with food poisoning. Doctors released all but 20 children and one teacher after brief emergency treatment.

Entire proceeds from the affair will go to the new school fund. Tickets may be purchased from any member of the church, at the rectory on Delaware Avenue or at the gate Sunday.

Personal Notes

Lucius H. Kennedy has returned to Kingston after a visit to Washington, D. C., where he formerly was employed. He left this city January 3 but his visit was prolonged by illness. Mr. Kennedy is the son of the late W. A. Kennedy, who operated the old Kingston Carriage Co., and Mrs. Kennedy.

George C. Smith, son of Mr. and Mrs. Leyden I. Smith of Fleischmanns has been named to the Dean's list of Ithaca College for the spring semester. Mr. Smith was among the 15 per cent of the students ranking highest in scholarship in the School of Business.

To Open Market Soon

The Grand Union supermarket being built on Albany Avenue extension is expected to be ready for business early in August, it was indicated today. One source also indicated that earlier plans for the building of another large store building on property near the supermarket have been abandoned, at least temporarily.

Health for All

NO SHORT-CUT

Modern medicine has advanced so rapidly in the control of disease in the past 50 years that we get into the habit of expecting it to do miracles overnight. Tuberculosis is a disease which can be prevented and can be cured, but there is no easy short-cut. From time to time new methods of prevention and treatment have been proclaimed only to end in disillusionment. The history of the campaign against TB is full of false hopes raised and then dashed.

One of the greatest hopes for the defeat of tuberculosis lies in the discovery of a vaccine which could be used to make everyone resistant to the germs which cause tuberculosis. The problem has been worked on ever since the tubercle bacillus was discovered in the last century. One vaccine, Bacillus Calmette-Guérin, called BCG, has been valuable in special cases, but there is still no vaccine for TB which is completely safe and which gives the degree of immunity produced by small-pox vaccine and diphtheria toxoid against those diseases.

BCG is especially useful for immunizing groups of people who are particularly vulnerable to TB and heavily exposed to the germs: doctors, medical students, and nurses; hospital and laboratory workers; people unavoidably exposed to infection in the home, and children and certain adults who are believed to have poor resistance to TB and who live in communities where the disease is unusually prevalent.

Until an ideal vaccine is discovered and given to all the people, the slower, proved methods of TB control must be carried on. All people must learn how to protect themselves against TB. Every effort must be made to find all the cases of TB, find them early, and get them treated in TB hospitals. Later breakdowns of patients whose disease has been cured must be prevented through the use of modern rehabilitation techniques. And, finally, scientific research must be intensified to find better means of preventing and curing tuberculosis.

This column is sponsored in the interest of better health, by the Ulster County TB and Health Association, 74 John Street.

Show Opens Monday

Woodstock, July 24—A one-man show of paintings titled "Special Constructions," by Paul Nabb will open at the Parnassus Square Galleries, with a preview Monday, July 27, from 8 to 10 p. m. The show will continue through August 8.

Ise Sass Featured As Guest Pianist In New Paltz Series

The second in the series of three Chamber music concerts, sponsored by State University Teachers College at New Paltz, will be presented Wednesday, July 29, 8:30 p. m. in the College Union Lounge. Appearing in this second concert will be members of the Woodstock String Quartet, with Ise Sass as guest pianist. Sidney Harth, violinist, will again direct the group with Frank Mele, viola and Engelbert Roentgen, cello, completing the quartet.

Miss Sass was born in Cologne, Germany and graduated with highest honors from the Cologne Music School. Her recital at Times Hall in New York was enthusiastically reviewed.

Frank Mele is considered an expert on chamber music and has had articles published in various magazines on the subject.

Engelbert Roentgen, last year's director of New Paltz concerts, is the son of the pianist and composer, Dr. Julius Roentgen and has toured the continent as a soloist and a member of the Roentgen trio. He is at present assistant conductor of the Minneapolis Symphony Orchestra.

Sidney Harth, director of the current series, was introduced at the initial concert in the series, July 15.

The program for this week's concert will include the Piano Quartet in G Minor, Mozart; String Quartet, op. 10, Dohnanyi; and Piano Quartet in G Minor, op. 25, Brahms.

Wind Halts Trip

Rye, July 25 (AP)—Ayves Bertrahet, French engineer who took off Wednesday for France in a 15-foot catamaran, got as far as Milton Point near here when his craft was washed ashore by Thursday's wind and rain storm, it was learned today. Bertrahet, 33, expected to sail and drift to his native land in 40 to 60 days. His catamaran is made of two hulls joined under a single deck and equipped with a sail. There was no indication when Bertrahet would take off again. He started from Great Neck, N. Y., on Long Island Sound.

Family Comedy Is Next Attraction

BETTY BRECKENRIDGE

Woodstock, July 24—The long awaited pre-Broadway tryout of Some Little Honor, Josephine Bentham's new and bouncing American family comedy, starring Betty Breckenridge, will open at the Woodstock Playhouse Tuesday, July 28, and will continue through Sunday, August 2. Philip Robinson will direct the play.

Some Little Honor presents the riotous dilemma of a suburban housewife whose husband and children have received community recognition for their special talents and who is determined to reap some little honor for herself. How she fares amidst a bedlam of picket lines, senatorial surveys, bank buries and United Nations complications is told in three acts of topsy-turvy activity—and hilarious dialogue from Miss Bentham's pen.

This is Miss Bentham's second play, her previous comedy being the Broadway success, Janie, and its subsequent motion picture.

Miss Breckenridge will be supported by a cast including Michael Lipton, Alexander Lockwood, Ken Walker, Tom Emlen Williams, Louis Criss, Ann Sullivan, Elliott Gould and Lynn Olwin.

The setting for Some Little Honor was created by Playhouse designer R. McDonald Brown, who for the past seven years has designed sets for the Winter Haven Theatre in Florida.

Village Notes

Woodstock, July 24 — Mr. and Mrs. Alex Mitchell of Bloomfield, N. Y., are visiting his mother, Mrs. Gladys Mitchell for several days.

Mr. and Mrs. David Ackermann of Venice, Fla., are spending a month with Mr. and Mrs. Everett Cashdollar of Wittenberg. Their grandchildren Patty, Robert and Barbara Lee of Sussex, N. J., will join them soon for two weeks.

Mark Grazer, son of Mr. and Mrs. Roger Grazer of Wittenberg, celebrated his first birthday July 16, and a party was held at his home Saturday. Those attending were Patty Lee, Barbara Anne Bark, Kathy, Jennifer and Joe Forno, Chris Snyder, Bert Winne 3rd, Wendy and Cynthia Schriever and Harry Bernanke.

Services Announced

Woodstock, July 24 — It has been announced that beginning Sunday, July 26, St. Gregory's Episcopal Church on Route 212, the Rev. Herald Swezy, vicar, services will be conducted every Sunday at 11:45 a. m. These services will continue through August. The little chapel now proudly boasts a church bell. Mr. and Mrs. Grazer will be officiating at 11:30 a. m. Sunday, 15 minutes before the hour of service.

YMCA Notes

Boys are now signing up for the trip to Yankee Stadium in New York City, August 7. This trip is held by the Y every year in the summer and always attracts large numbers of Kingston boys.

With a week all members of the boys' division will have received a schedule of trips for the remainder of the summer. Some of the following trips will be included in this schedule: Williams Lake, Sportsmans Park, the Runnebeck Fair, DeWitt Lake, Catskill Game Farm. There will be a Hudson River boat or a trip through an interesting business concern or plant.

By the first of August the first part of the boys' swimming program will have been completed. A total of 36 boys are enrolled in this program and instruction is held in the Y pool every Tuesday and Thursday morning. There is still room for more boys and after learning to swim the learners are required to pass the YMCA's Minnow swimming test. On Tuesday David Dempsey and Bill Bodenwever passed this test.

Every afternoon before the general swim a tournament has been held in the boys' division game room. So far these tournaments have been won by Robert Dunn and Charles Adler.

New YMCA members in the boys' division include: Bill Lucca, John Roberts, Morgan Ryan, Robert Steeger, Leo Wojcniowski, Steven Lang, Roger Rumschler, Victor Albright and Robert Smith.

Fares Go Up

New York, July 25 (AP)—Fares on city-owned subway and surface lines went up from 10 to 15 cents today. The new rate became effective one minute after midnight. Only tokens will be acceptable on subway and elevated lines. Bus passengers will pay with coins. However, there's still one 5-cent fare left in the metropolitan area: Ferry service from Manhattan to Staten Island.

Food Poisons 137

London, July 25 (AP)—A pre-vention banquet in a suburban London school today sent 131 children and six teachers into three hospitals with food poisoning. Doctors released all but 20 children and one teacher after brief emergency treatment.

Indians Rip Tigers, 11-8, to Gain Clean Sweep of National LL Honors

The Indians completed a sweep of both halves of the National Little League race yesterday, downing the winless Tigers, 11-8, in the season's finale at the upper Hasbrouck diamond.

The Tribe finished with seven wins and two losses for an overall record of 14 wins and four setbacks. The club was outstanding from the start and ran up lopsided scores in many of its victories.

Jack Fischer and William Murphy collaborated for the Indian triumph. Murphy pitching brilliant relief after the Tigers scored six runs in the first inning. They led 7-4 at the end of four when the Indians pushed across seven runs in the next two innings. It was the sixth straight loss for the Tigers in the second half.

Ray Spadafora, the Indians catcher and cleanup batter, wound up the season with a grand flourish, going "4 for 4" with two doubles and two singles. Frank Cavano rapped two singles for the Indians, who collected 10 safeties.

Don Kruszenski, the Tiger hurler, cracked two singles and tied with Murphy for strikeouts with eight.

Charlie Blanschan, Sam Perry and Norman Heppner each had a double.

Golfers Seek First Ace In Aug. 2 Hole-in-One

The Albany Junior Chamber of Commerce has appealed to Hudson valley baseball fans to support the Booster Night planned at Hawkins Stadium on Monday, Aug. 10.

The game will be between the Albany Senators and the Schenectady Blue Jays, keen rivals in the Class A Eastern League.

In a letter to Mayor Oscar V. Newkirk, the chairman of the event, Gene Teper and James G. Greig, said:

"It is with a great deal of pleasure that we seek your cooperation in our Boosters' Baseball Night in Albany. We fully realize that you know that baseball all over the country merits the consideration and interest of every real American citizen. Each community has its own problems in trying to keep this fine American institution alive.

"We, therefore, would deem it a great tribute if you will lend us your support in creating interest in your neighborhood for all those who would like to attend Booster Night. We believe many of our neighbors enjoy these baseball games and it will be wonderful to have their support in order that we may keep baseball in Albany for their pleasure."

SPORTS

By CHARLES J. TIANO
Freeman Sports Editor

If it were possible to properly inscribe the late Charles Brodhead's sports philosophy in a brief epitaph, you would have to describe him as an implacable foe of the opposition . . . and a loyal, resolute, unwavering rooter for the home forces . . . in joyous victory or dismal defeat.

Everybody in town knew and admired Charlie Brodhead for what he was . . . the hottest home town sports rooter who ever came down the pike. Whether it was a high school squad, a semi-pro ball, a sandlot or Little League, Charlie only had eyes for the home town. The other fellows were there just to make the game possible.

Nobody rejoiced more in victory or despaired more in defeat than Charlie. The thought of a home town defeat even when the locals trailed by a dozen runs going into the last of the ninth never occurred to the man. It was sacrilegious to suggest to him that a Kingston team could be beaten until the final returns were in.

If an opposing batter hit for the cycle or the opposition pitcher tossed a 2-hit shutout and fanned 15, Charlie might possibly break down and admit they had something. But not too often. So intense was his loyalty to the home team that he seemed to be wearing blinkers every time the other guys came to bat. But all in friendly fashion, because it was his nature to be kind.

For years Charlie was a fixture at municipal stadium where he could always be found in the first row below the press box. Through the years there was a small coterie of loyal Kingston rooters that congregated there with unfailing regularity.

Time was when butter was still a mighty scarce item and, moved by the spirit of the giveaway carnival at the stadium, Charlie told the man on the PA system that he would give a pound of butter to the player who hit a triple. Charles was clipped for two pounds of butter that night and he had to scramble all over the town to get them. But he did, although his cronies around the press box kept kidding him for months if he had fulfilled his commitments.

It's tough to say farewell to such a noble example of that fading American species—the real, died-in-the-wool home town sports rooter. There are so few left. And we extend our condolences to Mrs. Charles Brodhead and Charles Jr., who was quite close to his father and shared his tremendous enthusiasm for sports.

Wes Westrum on the Upswing

One of the last conversations we had with Charlie Brodhead dealt with the subject of Wes Westrum, the New York Giants' brilliant catcher, who is a resident of Poughkeepsie and caught wartime ball for the fabulous Reckless.

Charlie rejoiced about Westrum's great comeback with the surging Giants. The steel-armed catcher is again playing the kind of ball he did down the stretch in 1951. Oh, if the guy could only hit 300! He would rank among the all-time catching greats.

Because he strikes out a lot and always has trouble showing his average above the .230 mark, Wes never gets any part of the credit he deserves. Yet he is the defensive bellwether of the Giants . . . the guy who gets the most out of the pitchers.

A season's end in 1951, Eddie Stanky said of Westrum: "There's one guy on this club who probably is the most underrated player in the majors today. There's only one other catcher in the business who can compare with him defensively and that's Roy Campanella. Wes is the guy who's made our pitchers tick. Nobody can get any more out of a pitcher than he can. And there just isn't a better arm anywhere in baseball."

Wes wasn't quite the catcher in 1952 that he had been the year before but he always insisted that his banged up hands and ailing back were the big reason. Nobody listened and this spring almost everybody but the best boy has a shot at his job. Ray Noble was called in from Milwaukee to take a fling at it. He can hit better than Wes but the Giants didn't start moving until Wes returned behind the plate.

It was Westrum's superb handling of Allan Worthington that helped the husky right handed rookie notch two shutouts in his first two starts. It was he who helped Al Corvin return to his '51 form.

In the recent Giant surge it is well to note that not a single runner stole a base on Westrum.

"Sure," said Garry Schumacher, a shrewd man, "hardly anybody tried. But in itself is a tribute to Westrum. They just don't dare."

The fact that Wes is throwing and catching once again like he did a couple of years ago is one of the reasons why the Giants, far off the pace, are still to be reckoned with.

Yesterday's Stars

(By The Associated Press)

Pitching—Billy Hoelt, Detroit Tigers, pitched the Tigers out of the American League cellar for the first time since April 20 with a three hit shutout against New York, winning 5-1.

Batting—Granny Hamner, Philadelphia Phillies, hit two home runs, the second one in the last of the ninth, to give the Phils a 2-1 decision over St. Louis.

Joe Carr, 1953 British Amateur golf champion, was the first Briton to win the title in the last four years. He also was the first Briton to reach the finals in that time.

Macon, Ga.—Emerson Butcher, Rock Island, Ill., outpointed Al "Kid" McCoy, Macon, 12. (Middleweights, but exact weights not available.)

The Freeman furnishes the balls and handsome clock trophies will be awarded to first place in the men's and women's divisions. Runerup prizes will be golf balls.

Red Sox Could Win It All If Ted Williams Returns

Stengel's Moanin' Mighty Low But Yankees Could Be Worse

Detroit, July 25 (AP)—When the New York Yankees tallspinned into a nine-game losing streak about three weeks ago, Manager Casey Stengel closed the clubhouse door and refused to talk to reporters.

Well, the Yankees are struggling through a four-game losing streak and Stengel isn't talking again—he's moaning.

"We ain't gettin' the pitching and how can you expect to win that way?" the veteran skipper asked today after his world champions lost to the Detroit Tigers, 5-1.

"We win eight of 10 and we're okay," he added. "And then we go to Cleveland and nobody hits. We lost three and then come here and this club plays like crazy against us."

They (the Tigers) give us a lot of trouble. Since I've been here we've never lost a season's series to any team, you know. But these guys here—they tied us a couple of years ago. They're tough for us."

Casey shook his head and walked up and down, hands clasped behind his back like an expectant father waiting outside the delivery room. But, actually, things could be worse. While the Yanks fell victim to Billy Hoelt's three-hitter Friday night, both the Chicago White Sox and Cleveland lost, thus flubbing chances to close ground.

Despite Hoelt's fine hurling, the White Sox remained 4½ games behind the Yanks and Cleveland 8.

Bobby Sox Burning League Since July 4

By BEN PHLEGAR

Associated Press Sports Writer

If Ted Williams can find the fountain of youth, the Boston Red Sox may yet have to be considered as pennant contenders in the American League.

Certainly the Williams-less Sox are burning up the circuit and, with the New York Yankees continuing to slip, they've moved into third place, 7½ games behind the stumbling New Yorkers.

Williams comes out of the Marines Aug. 1 and he will be back with his old club shortly after that. In his absence a bunch of youngsters, many of whom were still in grade school when the slugger first donned a Red Sox uniform in 1939, have caught fire.

Since the fourth of July they've played at an 800 pace. Last night they took a pair from the hapless St. Louis Browns 8-0 and 6-0 for their 14th and 15th victories in their last 18 games.

Yankees Folding

The league-leading Yankees have looked mighty sad recently and they couldn't do a thing against lefty Billy Hoelt in Detroit last night as they lost their fourth straight 5-1. Hoelt gave up only three hits and struck out eight in lifting the Tigers out of last place for the first time since mid-April.

For the second time this week the second place Chicago White Sox blew a chance to gain on the Yankees. Philadelphia caught the Chicagoans in the ninth inning and went on to beat them 4-2 in 12 frames when Cass Michaels hit a two-run homer.

Cleveland dropped from third to fourth, eight games behind New York, by losing to Washington 6-4.

In the National League the Milwaukee Braves slapped down the first place Brooklyn Dodgers 11-6, cutting the Dodgers' lead to 4½ games. Philadelphia edged St. Louis 2-1 on two homers by Granny Hamner. New York defeated Cincinnati 3-1 and Chicago thumped Pittsburgh 7-1.

Bill Henry and Maury McDermott handcuffed the Browns for Boston in the two-night affair at St. Louis. Henry gave up seven hits in winning his second game since being recalled from the minors. Tom Umpflett slammed a three-run homer in the first frame, one of only three hit in the five American League games last night.

Michaels Stars

The other two circuit blows were the big one by Michaels that broke up the marathon in Chicago and a three-run blast by big Walt Dropo that gave the Tigers a lead they never relinquished against New York.

Michaels also contributed a single to a ninth inning Philadelphia rally that tied the game at Chicago. Three other singles and an error produced two runs. The White Sox loaded the bases in the 11th but ancient Bobo Newsom came in to retire the side and stayed through the 12th to win his first game of the season. Billy Pierce who struck out 12 men, suffered his seventh loss.

Art Houtteman, who hasn't had much better luck with Cleveland than he did with Detroit, gave up a two-run triple to Mickey Vernon in the first inning and the Indians never caught up to Washington.

Milwaukee poured it on the Dodgers, running the score to 11-1 before the leopards made a four-run stand in the eighth. Eddie Mathews hit his 30th home run with one on in the fifth and Walker Cooper homered with two on in the same inning when the Braves scored seven runs.

The Cards-Phillies contest was a real battle with Harvey Haddix, an error produced two runs. The Cards making the mistake of giving Hamner two good pitches. Granny parked one in the second inning and again in the last of the ninth. The St. Louis run scored in the sixth when Musial stole home.

Favorites Upset At Saratoga Track

Saratoga Springs, N. Y., July 25 (AP)—Scotch Victor and Direct Rhythm each captured a $10,000 race last night as favorites went down to defeat in the two main events of the Grand Circuit program at Saratoga Raceway.

Scotch Victor, a 13-to-1 shot from the S. A. Camp Farms, Shafter, Calif., scored by a length and a half over Pronto Do in the Arden free-for-all trot, doing the mile in 2:04 1/5.

Florican was third. The 3-to-1 favorite, Sharp Note, finished fourth in a field of five after a disastrous break before the start.

Joe O'Brien drove Scotch Victor, a 4-year-old out of Scotland. The winner paid $28.50.

Direct Rhythm, owned by W. G. Reynolds of Louisville, Ky., took the $10,000 Springfield free-for-all pace by a head over Prince Jay. Direct Rhythm paid $5.20.

Red Sails First

Westbury, N. Y., July 25 (AP)—Red Sails, owned by H. T. King, of Lynn, Ind., scored a nose victory last night in the $5,000 Ronkonkoma Pace at Roosevelt Raceway, holding off the on-changer, Philip Scott in a photo finish. Paige Direct was third in the field of six. The time for the mile was 2:02.1, and Red Sails returned $8.99 for $2.

Indians Rip Tigers, 11-8, to Gain Clean Sweep of National LL Honors

The Indians completed a sweep of both halves of the National Little League race yesterday, downing the winless Tigers, 11-8, in the season's finale at the upper Hasbrouck diamond.

The Tribe finished with seven wins and two losses for an overall record of 14 wins and four setbacks. The club was outstanding from the start and ran up lopsided scores in many of its victories.

Jack Fischer and William Murphy collaborated for the Indian triumph, Murphy pitching brilliant relief after the Tigers scored six runs in the first inning. They led 7-4 at the end of four when the Indians pushed across seven runs in the next two innings. It was the sixth straight loss for the Tigers in the second half.

Ray Spadafora, the Indians catcher and cleanup batter, wound up the season with a grand flourish, going 4 for 4 with two doubles and two singles. Frank Cavano rapped two singles for the Indians, who collected 10 safeties.

Don Kruszenski, the Tiger hurler, cracked two singles and tied with Murphy for strikeouts with eight.

Charlie Blanschan, Sam Perry and Norman Heppner each had a double.

SPORTS

By CHARLES J. TIANO
Freeman Sports Editor

If it were possible to properly inscribe the late Charles Brodhead's sports philosophy in a brief epitaph, you would have to describe him as an implacable foe of the opposition . . . and a loyal, resolute, unwavering rooter for the home forces . . . in joyous victory or dismal defeat.

Everybody in town knew and admired Charlie Brodhead for what he was . . . the hottest home town sports roter who ever came down the pike. Whether it was a high school squad, a semi-pro ball, a sandlot or Little League, Charlie only had eyes for the home town. The other fellows were there just to make the game possible.

Nobody rejoiced more in victory or despaired more in defeat than Charlie. The thought of a home town defeat even when the locals trailed by a dozen runs going into the last of the ninth never occurred to the man. It was sacrilegious to suggest to him that a Kingston team could be beaten until the final returns were in.

On an opposing batter hit for the cycle or the opposition pitcher tossed a 2-hit shutout and fanned 15, Charlie might possibly break down and admit they had something. But not too often. So intense was his loyalty to the home team that he seemed to be wearing blinkers every time the other guys came to bat. But all in friendly fashion, because it was his nature to be kind.

For years Charlie was a fixture at municipal stadium where he could always be found in the first row below the press box. Through the years there was a small coterie of loyal Kingston rooters that congregated there with unfailing regularity.

Time was when buvancy was still a mighty scarce item and, moved by the spirit of a giveaway carnival at the stadium, Charlie told the man on the PA system that he would give a pound of butter to the player who hit a triple. Charles was clipped for two pounds of butter that night and he had to scramble all over the town to get them. But he did, although his cronies around the press box kept kidding him for months if he had fulfilled his commitments.

It's tough to say farewell to such a noble example of that fading American species—the real, died-in-the-wool home town sports roter. There are so few left. And we extend our condolences to Mrs. Charles Brodhead and Charles Jr., who was quite close to his father and shared his tremendous enthusiasm for sports.

• Wes Westrum on the Upswing:

One of the last conversations we had with Charlie Brodhead dealt with the subject of Wes Westrum, the New York Giants' brilliant catcher, who is a resident of Poughkeepsie and caught wartime ball for the fabulous Reckless.

Charlie rejoiced at Westrum's great comeback with the surging Giants. The steel-armed catcher is again playing the kind of ball he did down the stretch in 1951. Oh, if the guy could only hit 300! He would rank among the all-time catching greats.

Because he strikes out a lot and always has trouble shoving his average above the .220 mark, Wes never gets any part of the credit he deserves. Yet he is the defensive bellwether of the Giants . . . the guy who gets the most out of the pitchers.

At season's end in 1951, Eddie Stanky said of Westrum: "There's one guy on this club who probably is the most underrated player in the majors today. There's only one other catcher in the business who can compare with him defensively and that's Roy Campanella. Wes is the guy who's made our pitchers tick. Nobody can get any more out of a pitcher than he can. And there just isn't a better arm anywhere in baseball."

Wes wasn't quite the catcher in 1952 that he had been the year before but he always insisted that his banged up hands and ailing back were the big reason. Nobody listened and this spring almost everybody but the bat boy had a shot at his job. Ray Noble was called in from Milwaukee to take a fling at it. He can hit better than Wes but the Giants didn't start moving until Wes returned behind the plate.

It was Westrum's superb handling of Allan Worthington that helped the husky right handed rookie notch two shutouts in his first two starts. It was he who helped Al Corwin return to his '51 form.

In the recent Giant surge it is well to note that not a single runner stole a base on Westrum.

"Sure," said Garry Schumacher, a shrewd man, "hardly anybody tried. But that in itself is a tribute to Westrum. They just don't dare."

The fact that Wes is throwing and catching once again like he did a couple of years ago is one of the reasons why the Giants, far off the pace, are still to be reckoned with.

Yesterday's Stars

(By The Associated Press)
Pitching—Billy Hoelt, Detroit Tigers, pitched the Tigers out of the American League cellar for the first time since April 20 with a three-hitter against New York, winning 5-1.

Batting—Granny Hamner, Philadelphia Phillies, hit two home runs, the second one in the last of the ninth, to give the Phils a 2-1 decision over St. Louis.

Joe Carr, 1953 British Amateur golf champion, was the first Briton to win the title in the last four years. He also was the first Briton to reach the finals in that time.

Macon, Ga.—Emerson Butcher, Rock Island, Ill., outpointed Al "Kid" McCoy, Macon, 12 (Middleweights, but exact weights not available.)

The Freeman furnishes the balls and handsome clock trophies will be awarded to first place in the men's and women's divisions. Runner-up prizes will be golf balls.

Seven-Iron Hole

The Twaalfskill hole is within reach of a 7-iron for experienced players, although others will use the 5 and 6 irons. The average woman player will make it with a four iron or four wood.

Entry blanks are available at all four area clubs and an official entry form will appear daily in The Freeman.

Deadline entries is Thursday, July 30, but players will be permitted to compete at the tee when openings occur on the different time squads.

Fishermen Are After Four-Foot, Mad Muskies

North Bay, Ont., July 25 (P)—The big target for local fishermen today is a "mad muskie" with a taste for toes.

Mothers in the Trout Lake area have stopped their children from swimming until the big fish is caught. Cec Cole said the muskie—described as a 4-footer—nipped his toes Monday. Later a fisherman reported it snapped at his paddle and tore out a hunk of wood. Six swimmers have reported being nudged by the muskie.

Cops Senior Title

Rochester, N. Y., July 25 (P)—Mid-O'Hare of Syracuse mastered the west course at Oak Hill Country Club with a 36-hole total of 144 to come out on top of the heap yesterday in the 1953 New York State Senior Golf championship. The only "scratch" golfer in the 197-man tournament, O'Hare carded a last round 72 to make his total five strokes below his closest rival, Roy Corey, also of Syracuse.

Brokers Have Plan For More Cooperation

A plan "which will permit brokers to work more harmoniously together," was adopted at a meeting of the Ulster County Real Estate Board in the Governor Clinton Hotel Thursday night.

Details of the plan were not announced. Five delegates who attended the state convention at Bolton's Landing, Lake George, reported on the session.

Richard Risely of Shatehmuck Realty was named as a new member, and he, with Lester Elmer and Bob Canavan, was appointed to arrange for the board's clambake in August.

New Paltz, Woodstock, Tillsen, Kingston and lending institutions were represented by the 19 persons attending the session.

13-State Alarm Issued Today For Five Missing Children

New York, July 25 (AP)—A 13-state alarm was issued early today for five children, ranging in age from seven to 12 years, who were supposed to have gone to Central Park yesterday.

Police quoted neighborhood chums of the missing boys and girls as stating they planned to go to New Jersey on an overnight hike.

All the children live at 435 East 76th street in Manhattan.

They are:
Sharon Allico, 8-year-old blonde, with brown eyes, wearing blue shorts, a white shirt with green dots and blue sneakers.

His brother, Ralph, 7, who has brown hair and eyes. And wore brown dungarees, a polo shirt and black and white sneakers.

Charles Lobianco, 10, who has black hair and brown eyes. He wore blue dungarees and a polo shirt.

His sister, Joan, 9, who has brown hair and eyes. She wore blue dungarees, a plaid shirt and red shoes.

Dorothy Kirk, 12, who has brown hair, blue eyes, and was wearing blue dungarees and a white blouse.

Police said the seven Canadians, all from Levis, Quebec, were on their way to the meeting of the Jehovah's Witnesses in Yankee Stadium, New York.

The dead were listed as:
Lucian Coulombe, 47, the driver.

Diane Grossellin, 7, who died early today in good Samaritan hospital, Suffern, N. Y., five hours after the accident.

An unidentified pregnant woman.

The injured, all in critical condition at Good Samaritan Hospital.

Juliette Coulombe, 47, Paul Grossellin, 41, father of Diane.

Huguette Grossellin, 9, Diane's sister.

Lorenzo duChesne, 47.

Mahwah police said the accident happened on a three-lane stretch of the highway when the truck pulled into the middle lane and slowed down to make a left turn into a gasoline station. The Canadians' car was headed in the opposite direction, south, and the two vehicles hit head-on, police reported.

The driver of the truck, Carlton Chase, 30, of Ontario, N. Y., was uninjured. He was held in Bergen county jail in lieu of $500 bail on a charge of causing death by reckless driving.

Hospital authorities said the group was driving to Yankee Stadium when plans to meet President Eisenhower were abruptly cancelled there. The car bore the Jehovah's Witnesses sign on the back.

Nehru in Pakistan For Border Parleys
Karachi, Pakistan, July 25 (AP)—India's Prime Minister Nehru flew here today for talks with Pakistan's Prime Minister Mohammed Ali that may ease their nation's 6-year-old controversy over the border state of Kashmir.

Most observers were skeptical, however, that any agreement could be reached soon in the bitter dispute, which has kept the two young poverty-ridden countries armed against each other at great cost.

Finally Meet President
Quantico Marine Base, Va., July 25 (AP)—Defense chiefs got some unscheduled exercise yesterday when plans to meet President Eisenhower went awry. Secretary of Defense Wilson and his top aides were waiting at the approach of the Quantico Reservation when word arrived the President would be late in joining the extraordinary "get-together" of Pentagon brass here. The welcoming party returned to their quarters and Eisenhower promptly arrived, greeted only by sentries and newsmen. The newcomers then hurried to meet their chief, but he passed them on his way to the house where he was to stay overnight. The party finally caught up with Eisenhower while he watched the launchings when they trotted up a hill to the house.

Hopeful on Strike
New York, July 25 (AP)—A special citizens' mediation committee continued yesterday its efforts to settle the three-week-old strike of building material drivers which has halted or curtailed construction projects totaling 600 million dollars in value in the metropolitan area. The committee, headed by Kings County Judge Nathan R. Sobel, met with representatives of striking Local 282 of the AFL International Brotherhood of Teamsters. Sobel told newsmen there was "hope" that a pattern for settlement of the dispute might come out of negotiations between excavation drivers and excavation contractors.

Say Leaks on UN Side
Panmunjom, July 25 (AP)—The roof leaks on the peace pagoda the Communists put up here in four hurried days this week. Rain today dripped through a half dozen places in the roof of the building which is to house the truce signing ceremony. Communist correspondents said all the leaks were on the United Nations side.

Agreement Signed
Karachi, Pakistan, July 25 (AP)—An agreement was signed here yesterday by Pakistan and the UN technical assistance board to supply Pakistan a team of hydrological experts and essential equipment for increasing Karachi's water supply. An acute water shortage exists in the capital which has a population of about 1½ million.

A litter of armadillos is invariably of the same sex, says the National Geographic Society.

Candidate Slain
Beirut, Lebanon, July 25 (AP)—Mohamed Abboud, former finance minister and a candidate in current parliamentary elections, died today of bullet wounds. He was shot by an unknown assassin Thursday. Abboud's opponent in the campaign, former cabinet minister Suleiman Ali, is being held in connection with the slaying, which took place in front of the presidential palace.

Son Bitten by Dog
Willis Carney of 274 Linderman avenue reported to city police at 9:30 p. m. yesterday that his son, Willis, Jr., has been bitten on the right arm, shoulder and back by a dog on Murray street. He said the owner of the dog was unknown.

Mid-Hudson Guide On News Counters

The first edition of a new Guide to New York State's Mid-Hudson Area is now in the hands of newsdealers throughout the five county area.

Published by Michael C. Starkman of 292 Fair street, the Guide contains 148 pages of editorial matter and advertising devoted to Ulster, Greene, Orange, Columbia and Dutchess counties.

Newsstand distribution is being handled through regular distributors. Starkman's office is providing spot distribution to restaurants and resorts that do not handle regular periodicals.

The illustrated booklet describes points of interest in each county, as well as brief historical sketches, where to dine information and similar information.

The publisher guaranteed 10,000 copies as the first edition. It will be an annual publication, Starkman said.

Associated with Starkman in the new enterprise are Helen Hathaway and Jeannine Crispell, Edwin V. Grecious was the staff artist.

Predicts Jet Export
Cairo, Egypt, July 25 (AP)—Minister of War Abdul Latif Boghady was quoted today as predicting that Egypt will be able to export jet aircraft in three years.

The independent newspaper, Al-Ahram, quoted him as saying a greatly expanded armaments program will result in jet aircraft production of 120 units monthly, while an ammunition factory will produce enough cartridges to supply Egyptian and Middle East needs.

Boy Is Critical
New York, July 25 (AP)—A six-year-old boy remained in critical condition today after being shot in the abdomen yesterday by a hold-up man who robbed a grocery store in the Bronx and escaped.

The boy, Thomas Egan, was entering the grocery store of Morris Schemer when the gunman—described as a tall, heavily built Negro—ran out. Schemer was following the fleeing thief, who wheeled and fired six shots. One of the bullets struck the youngster.

Store Plans Pending
A spokesman for Schaffer Stores Co., Inc., operators of Empire Markets, indicated today that plans are still pending for the construction of a shopping center on the former Horton property adjacent to the local Empire Market. The spokesman said an announcement will be made "when definite plans have been concluded."

LITTLE LIZ

The trouble with a lot of people is that in trying times they quit trying.

Atomic Expert Is Promoted by Navy

Washington, July 25 (AP)—The navy has decided to add an admiral's gold braid to the uniform that Capt. Hyman G. Rickover, its atomic propulsion expert, was once scheduled to doff because he was twice passed by for promotion.

Rickover, 53-year-old native of Chicago, was listed among 29 captains selected for promotion to rear admiral. The announcement by the navy last night brought recollections of the congressional uproar last spring, when a secret selection board passed him up the second time.

By law, this would have forced his retirement last June 30. But the navy took special action in March to keep him on active duty another year and cleared the way for his promotion.

Ambassador Luce Decorates Navy Captain

Rome, Italy, July 25 (AP)—Ambassador Clare Boothe Luce pinned the Legion of Merit on a Pelham, N. Y., naval captain yesterday for "outstanding leadership and aggressiveness" in the Korean war.

The commander of the U. S. 7th Fleet awarded the medal to Capt. Michael P. Russillo, now chief of the naval section of the military assistance and advisory group to Italy with headquarters here.

The presentation took place in Mrs. Luce's office.

The medal was awarded for Russillo's action as commander of Destroyer Squadron 20 between November, 1952, and February, 1953. The citation said:

"By his outstanding leadership and aggressiveness, the forces under Russillo's command successfully attacked the enemy's rail and road supply lines * * * and maintained an effective blockade of the east coast of Korea."
